Adler, 2009-08-01 In this classic work Adler explores how man differs from all other things in the universe bringing to bear both philosophical insight and informed scientific hypotheses concerning the biological and behavioral characteristics of mankind Rapid advances in science and technology and the abstract concepts of that influence on man and human value systems are lucidly outlined by Adler as he touches on the effect of industrialization and the clash of cultures and value systems brought about by increased communication between previously isolated groups of people Among the other problems this study addresses are the scientific achievements in biology and physics which have raised fundamental questions about humanity's essential nature especially the discoveries in the biological relatedness of all living things Thrown into high relief is humanity's struggle to determine its unique status in the natural world and its value in the world it has created Ultimately Adler's work develops an approach to the separation between scientific and philosophical questions which stands as a model of thought on philosophical considerations of new scientific discoveries and its consequences for the human person Creating and Disseminating Knowledge for Educational Reform ,1984 Parents, Children, and Communication Thomas J. curriculum to something new and more suitable for their particular clientele Readers will need to weigh the appeal of various proposals presented here against criteria they have for locating an optimum model for their particular situation The proposals selected for inclusion in this book address the whole of the curriculum all levels all subjects all age groups they deal with entire program change rather than with incidental changes in content program arrangements teaching approaches or other limited alterations This book is intended to be a useful resource for those responsible for making decisions in a particular school or school district or at a broader policy making level about what the entire curriculum should be and should include It draws attention to the work of many thoughtful persons who have dealt with the issue of what a coherent curriculum might be like and who in some instances have set up actual programs based on their ideas Thinking Constructively About Science, Technology, and Society Education Dennis W.
