Getting Ready for College Begins in Third Grade Carol Castellano,2010-06-01 All parents hope for an independent future for their blind visually impaired child To turn that hope into a reality parents need to understand the scope of skill development that must be addressed along with the importance of equal expectations for the child s development proper training and opportunity to practice and develop skills But what if expectations are low training in blindness skills is scanty or even absent and overprotection prevents the blind VI child from learning and practicing skills The idea of an independent future can remain a distant dream The purpose of this book is to guide parents and teachers in fostering the blind visually impaired child s skill development in such critical areas as academics independent movement and travel social interaction daily living and self advocacy so that he or she will truly be on the road to an independent future A practical easy to use guide written in plain English the book warns about common problem areas and provides ideas for getting and keeping the child s education and development on track It highlights the interplay between skills and competence confidence self respect and the respect of others Of the small number of books and videos available on the subject most were written by professionals in the field and many begin with the supposition that blindness is at best sad and at worst tragic Few maybe none have the ardent passion for independence that the parent of a blind visually impaired child brings to the subject Instead of overwhelming parents and teachers with the difficulty of the undertaking before them Getting Ready for College Begins in Third Grade will inspire their confidence and enthusiasm for the task at hand

Arithmetic Counts! Paul Shoecraft,2025-01-24 Dr Shoecraft may be the only mathematician since the New Math in the 1960s to seriously analyze the lowly subject of arithmetic and how to teach it His breakthrough came when he experimented with teaching what needs to be understood instead of known memorized like teaching why addition problems until the algorithm they are using supposedly becomes cemented in their brains By teaching the essence of arithmetic in sensible ways and appealing to children's love of games songs and movement he's proven that virtually ALL children can learn arithmetic the foundation of algebra higher mathematics science technology and more even music When children understand arithmetic they own it It's no longer just their teacher's math It's their math America's children are being held back in math because of how arithmetic is drug out in elementary school Virtually every textbook based elementary school math program in use today is mind numbing in its repetitiveness from grade to grade The reason for the redundancy is to slow down the teaching of arithmetic so it can be memorized Research shows that the human brain is not designed to remember things learned by rote when no longer practiced That's acknowledged in the use it or lose it aphorism that states the obvious that we remember what we use and forget what we don't You know that to be true if you've ever forgotten things you once knew as well as your own name things like an old address or a license plate number Every child can understand base ten numeration when taught hands on with arithmetic blocks Thereby every child can understand base ten arithmetic And every child can learn how to count out the number facts like $5 \times 7 = 12$ $17 \times 8 = 96$ $X \times 7 = 42$ and $56 \times 7 = 8$ and if they forget one never have to guess and risk ridicule and bad grades if they guess wrong What matters in teaching arithmetic is not how much a child can remember but how much they can figure out if when they forget Math Memories You Can Count on Jo-Anne Lake, 2009 Organized around the five math strands number sense and numeration measurement geometry and spatial sense patterning and algebra and data management and probability Includes activity ideas rooted in children's literature and encourages links with relevant manipulatives Included also are book lists reproducible activities and assessment strategies
