

The READ WRITE LEARNER

Characteristics

1

Studies to learn

You learn by reading and writing and fit well into the traditional style of learning by using books and writing notes.

2

Likes to read

You prefer to read or write down something to learn it. You like essay questions and books and will look words up in dictionaries.

3

Big on notes

You are likely to take loads of notes in meetings, at presentations and in class. This helps you to remember what is being said.

4

Perfect student?

You tend to stay interested in traditional style presentations or classes, except if you don't have a pen and paper! Then you struggle to take it all in and get distracted.

5

Struggles with ...

You tend not to learn well through diagrams. You may also find disorganised presentations hard to follow.

Learning Tips

1

Read

Obviously! You will take in information better if you read it yourself. Hold on to your handouts and notes.

2

Take notes

This is so important for you as the act of writing notes makes you remember. Always carry a pen and paper and write everything down.

3

Re-write

Once you've taken notes, re-write them. This repetition is the best way to get information to stay in your brain.

4

Use your words

When re-writing your notes, try to put things in your own words. This will help you remember concepts and facts better.

5

Translate

If you are struggling with a diagram, try adding notes to explain it or even translating it into your own words.

Journal of the American Association for Adult Education American Association for Adult Education, 1926 Adult Learning and Social Change in the UK Jules Robbins, Alan Rogers, 2023-02-09 Adult education offers the potential to enhance the individual s sense of agency to direct and improve their future this is especially important in times of significant societal unrest It may lead to social change and even social justice This book begins with a new consideration of historical perspectives of radical adult education in the UK and how these might inform planning for future adult education which is both relevant and emancipatory The volume aims to capture some of the messiness of adult education through analysis of a wide range of its many forms and a focus on the learners themselves the different kinds of providers and the wider community around them Individual chapters offer insights into an environmental community gardening scheme provision for refugees and asylum seekers the radical role of volunteers the impact of discussion groups for older people and the National

Community Service scheme for young adults The book considers the significance of the Sustainable Development Goals each of which includes targets linked with adult training awareness raising or education Considering the factors for effective adult education programmes for social change this volume questions the extent to which it can be argued that positive social change results from adult education Active learning group learning and education which is practical flexible and individualised may provide the best routes ahead The wide ranging case studies demonstrate the importance of recognising and valuing adult learners prior knowledge and the need for alternative approaches to assessment

Applying Research in Reading Instruction for Adults Susan McShane, 2013-01-27 Reading is the most basic of skills Reading provides access to other skills and knowledge facilitates life long learning and opens doors to opportunity The National Institute for Literacy is authorized by the U S Congress to collect and disseminate information on the components of reading and the findings from scientific research The National Center for Family Literacy fully endorses the national emphasis on reading and the efforts to promote scientifically based reading instruction for children and adults We offer this resource for adult education teachers who want to build and strengthen adults reading skills We hope that adult education instructors in family literacy Adult Basic Education and other basic skills programs will find it useful We know that large numbers of adult learners need to improve their reading skills And yet many instructors in adult education programs do not teach reading explicitly for several reasons The assessments used in most programs don't reveal the complexities of adults reading needs Teachers often have only fragmentary knowledge about reading instruction Many have not had specific preparation in this area Most classes include adults with extremely varied skills making specifically targeted individualized instruction difficult if not impossible Teachers are challenged to find ways to incorporate reading instruction into their regular classroom schedules routines and lessons This book was written with these realities in mind It aims first to build background knowledge about reading and scientifically based reading instruction The language and format are teacher friendly using student and classroom illustrations and sample instructional activities to make research principles concrete for readers The focus in applying the research is on modeling thinking planning and problem solving in the context of fictional adult education settings The student and class profiles in these illustrations are based on actual assessment data from adult literacy research studies a reminder to readers of this book that it is a practical resource for use with real adult learners We titled this book First Steps because we know that no single resource can provide all the answers everything that's required to change practice But we believe this is a valuable resource for a teacher's professional development journey By building a basic understanding of research based reading instruction and offering suggestions for starting off in the right direction we hope to whet teachers' appetites for further learning As teachers and programs become more capable of applying research based principles for reading assessment and instruction the real winners should be adult learners and their families Improved literacy skills may allow these adults to take giant steps in the journey of lifelong learning We are privileged to play a part in this important effort
