A Divided Poet David Sanders, 2011 Frost s breakthrough book of poetry seen anew as an artistic whole and in the context of the poet s career and development North of Boston Robert Frost s second book of verse and arguably his greatest brought him suddenly into national prominence in 1915 Though completed and first published in England in 1914 the book was rooted in the decade 1900 1910 that Frost spent in Derry New Hampshire where he witnessed the decline of its traditional farming culture In presenting this drama of disappearance twelve of the book s fifteen principal poems are literally dramatic composed mainly of direct dialogue Among them are three of Frost s most famous lyrics each featuring a signature task of New England life and underlining the book s tribute to a fading culture Collectively the poems bring the diction and tones of a New England vernacular within a traditional metric frame making music as Frost boasted from the sound of sense and poetry of a language absolutely unliterary Such adaptations of ordinary language and experience to blank verse drama made Frost a founder of American modernism and North of Boston one of its monuments Exploring Frost s complex connection to his poetic characters this study provides new readings of the individual poems and a new look at North of Boston's development To a degree no other study has done it addresses the book's design as an artistic whole while placing it in the context of Frost's unfolding career David Sanders is Professor Emeritus of English at St John Fisher College Rochester New York

Asian Diaspora Poetry in North America Benzi Zhang,2007-12-12 Presenting a new way of reading that helps us discern some previously unnoticed or unnoticeable features of Asian diaspora poetry this volume highlights how poetry plays a significant role in mediating and defining cross cultural and transnational positions Asian diaspora poetry in North America is a rich body of poetic works that not only provide valuable material for us to understand the lives and experiences of Asian diasporas but also present us with an opportunity to examine some of the most important issues in current literary and cultural studies As a mode of writing across cultural and national borders these poetic works challenge us to reconsider the assumptions and meanings of identity nation home and place in a broad cross cultural context In recent postcolonial studies diaspora has been conceived not only as a process of migration in which people crossed and traversed the borders of different countries but also as a double relationship between different cultural origins With all its complexity and ambiguity associated with the experience of multi cultural mediation diaspora as both a process and a relationship suggests an act of constant repositioning in confluent streams that accommodate to multiple cultural traditions By examining how Asian diaspora poets maintain and represent their cultural differences in North America Zhang is able to seek new perspectives for understanding and analyzing the intrinsic values of Asian cultures that survive and develop persistently in North American societies

John Donne, Coterie Poet Arthur F. Marotti, 2008-08-01 Arthur F Marotti has produced the first systematic study of John Donne s poetry as coterie literature offering fresh interpretations of the poems in their biographical and sociohistorical contexts It will be of interest and value to students and scholars of English Renaissance literature to critics interested in the application of revisionist history to literary study and to those concerned with the processes by which literature became institutionalized in the early modern period Donne treated poetry as an avocation restricting his verse to carefully chosed readers friends acquaintances patrons and the woman he later married This study employs socio historical and psychoanalytic methods to examine this poetry as work designed for readers to respond in knowledgeable ways to a complex interplay of literary text and social context Marotti argues that it is necessary to relate literary language to the languages of social economic and political transactions and to define the social and ideological affiliations of literary genres and modes After setting Donne s practice in the framework of the sixteenth century systems of manuscript literary transmission Marotti treats the verse chronologically and according to audience paying particular attention to the rhetorical enactment of the author s relationships to peers and superiors through the conflicting styles of egalitarian assertion social iconoclasm and deferential politeness Marotti relates the poetry to Donne s contemporary prose discussing the author s choice of various literary forms in the context of his sociopolitical life as well in terms of the shift from Elizabethan to Jacobean rule the latter change resulting in a realignment of genres within the culture s literary system He reads Donne s formal satires humanist verse letters erotic elegies and commentary epistles aware of the social coordinates of those particular genres and defines the markedly different circumstances to which Donne s libertine courtly satiric sentimental complimentary and religious lyrics individually belonged Marotti deals also with Donne s inventive mixing of genres in both shorter and longer poems Marotti s groundbreaking work offers new models of historical interpretation of Donne s poetry complementing previous formalist intellectual historical and literary historical readings It particularly highlights the importance of attending to the socioliterary conditions of literature designed for manuscript transmission rather than for publication work that includes for example much of the lyric poetry of Renaissance England
