

A photograph of a rural agricultural landscape. In the foreground, a narrow, shallow water channel flows through a field. Several traditional fish traps, made of woven mesh and supported by wooden poles, are placed in the water. The traps are partially submerged and appear to be catching small fish. The background shows a vast green field, likely a rice paddy, with a line of trees and palm trees in the distance under a clear sky.

New Evaluation Procedures for a New Generation of Water-related Projects Ronald G. Cummings, Ariel Dinar, Douglas Olson, 1996-01-01 This groundbreaking study presents the results of a large survey of more than 400 industrial firms in Russia conducted by the World Bank in mid 1994 The survey examined the role and organization of the enterprise sector which is a key issue in transition economies particularly in Russia where a concerted attempt has been made to change ownership arrangements and hence corporate governance More than half the firms surveyed are in the private sector the rest remain in state hands or are partially privatized A major focus of the book is to understand whether the Russian privatization has led to improvements in corporate governance The authors identify some initial positive changes but also find that the manner in which privatization has occurred has not yet had a strong effect on the internal operations of Russian industrial firms However they do find evidence from their sample of significant growth in new firms The volume examines the positive and negative aspects of restructuring employment and workers compensation issues budget constraints the effects of privatization on employee behavior and future prospects for Russian firms

Current Status of Fresh Water Microbiology Ravindra Soni, Deep Chandra Suyal, Lourdes Morales-Oyervides, Jaspal Singh Chauhan, 2023-11-26 This contributed volume deals with the various aspects of freshwater microbiology including diverse habitats associated microorganisms their ecological interactions and industrial applications Freshwater ecosystems are dynamic natural resources providing sources of potable water food animal habitats and recreation Perspectives of microbial dynamics in freshwater bodies covered in this title provide a comprehensive and systematic analysis of microbial ecology in these ecosystems. These microbes are at the hub of biogeochemical cycles: carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, and other elements. Moreover, they are an integral part of the aquatic food web and control the quality of freshwater bodies. Chapters in this title also discuss the issue of pollution in freshwater bodies and put forward available strategies for eco-friendly solutions. The book is a perfect documentation of primary and secondary data-based information on the latest research findings, case studies, experiences, and innovations in the field of freshwater microbiology. The book is of great use to students, researchers, and professionals studying aquatic sciences.

The Vulnerability Thesis Lorelei Moosbrugger, 2012-06-19. Where politics is dominated by two large parties as in the United States, politicians should be relatively immune to the influence of small groups. Yet narrow interest groups often win private benefits against majority preferences and at great public expense. Why? The vulnerability thesis is that the electoral system is largely to blame, making politicians in two-party systems more vulnerable to interest group demands than politicians in multiparty systems. Political scientist Lorelei Moosbrugger ranks democracies on a continuum of political vulnerability and tests the thesis by examining agrochemical policy in Austria, Britain, Germany, Sweden, and the European Union.

Environmental and Economic Issues in Forestry Susan Shen, Arnoldo Contreras-Hermosilla, 1995-01-01. World Bank Technical Paper No. 281. Cost-benefit Analysis of the Onchocerciasis Control Program (OCP) Ae-hyung Kim, Bruce Benton, 1995-01-01. Annotation. World Bank Technical Paper No. 282. This volume presents a cost-benefit analysis of the Onchocerciasis Riverblindness Control Program (OCP) by examining its costs and the measurable economic benefits gained from the successful control of the disease. Widely recognized as one of the most successful disease control programs in the history of development assistance, the OCP projects the elimination of riverblindness throughout an eleven-country subregion of West Africa within the next eight years. This program, which began in the early 1970s, was the World Bank's first major venture into the health field. The Bank asked a large donor community of more than 20 governments and international organizations to make a long-term commitment of more than US$500 million to implement the OCP. This paper documents the benefits in economic terms from the large investment and shows that large-scale, well-conceived health interventions are clearly the business of development. The program improves the health and living environment of the rural population and frees previously onchocerciasis-ridden tracts of land for settlement and cultivation.
