Come Sundown Eddie B Saxton, 2016-11-10 Come Sundown contains a collection of poems that will take you back in time to the early 1950s and into the turbulent 60s You will find that there are poems that will take you into my world of pragmatic thought the invasion of a dysfunctional or semi dysfunctional mind and my state of reasoning which will seem mind boggling at times It contains memorable times of my youth some fond and some are about my personal struggles and growing up on the south side of Chicago Hopefully this book will leave you in awe of the past and incite you to ponder the future luring you into reconsidering the value of family and friends I try adding a little humor to some of my poems so that all won't seem morbid or come from an irrational mind We all have mountains to climb and rivers to cross there are loves we've gained and so many precious ones we've lost This book gives us a chance to look at life from different perspectives Sometimes we seem to be drowning in a sea of non conforming progression and yet there are anomalies that come into our lives which give us hope We fantasize and we dream After reading Come Sundown you would have taken a dazzling trip into the realms of an altered state of being You will find yourself descending deep into your own world of boundless thoughts and misconceptions You will feel the gravitational pull into my mind and the challenges of yours which allows a glimpse into the inner workings of an overactive mind Not only does this book look at things from a dysfunctional point of view it also takes a gentle look at the spiritual part of life

The Ruskin Polygon John Dixon Hunt, Faith M. Holland, 1982

Perceptual Ephemera Thomas Crowther, Clare Mac Cumhaill, 2018-06-03 Most research on perception has focused on the perceptual experience of three dimensional solid bounded and coherent material objects items like tables and tomatoes But as well as having perceptual experience of such objects we also experience such aspects of the world as for instance rainbows and surfaces shadows and absences things that are ephemeral by contrast with material objects This book presents fifteen new essays on the perceptual experience of such ephemera The editors introduction provides a detailed guide to the topic as a whole setting out the thematic background to this emerging area of research in contemporary philosophy of perception The volume winds a path through the ephemeral considering such topics as sounds smells transparency reflection camouflage solidity and ambient vision A general aim of the volume is to make a case that the broad range of ephemera it catalogues is far from marginal or insubstantial with respect to their philosophical interest and value Philosophical attention to perceptual ephemera may well suggest novel routes to arriving at a more developed understanding of perceptual experience at large and its characteristic features
