The Promise of Educational Psychology Richard E. Mayer, 1999

Covering the latest advanced in the field this brief easy to read introduction to educational psychology focuses on learning and teaching in subject areas and on helping students develop specific cognitive processes that are required to accomplish real academic tasks Shows how psychological theories and research influence the development of better instructional practices and how real instructional problems influence the development of better psychological theories and research Deals with the educational psychology of five major subject areas reading fluency reading comprehension writing mathematics and science Includes three to six major cognitive processes involved in mastering the subject area in each chapter Analyzes the types of knowledge that are needed to perform academic tasks in the domain in several chapters Provides concrete examples and connections between cognitive research and practical educational problems Covers the core advances in educational psychology For educators at all levels Knowing, Learning, and Instruction Lauren B. Resnick, 1989 Celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Learning Research and Development Center RDC at the University of Pittsburgh these papers present contemporary research on cognition and instruction The book pays homage to Robert Glaser founder of LRDC and includes debates and discussions about issues of fundamental importance to the cognitive science of instruction Educational Psychology Christine McCormick, Gary D. Borich, Christine B. McCormick, Michael Pressley, Martin L. Tombari, 1997 This text aims to teach students the principles of educational psychology through a base of solid research The text encourages critical thinking and therefore integrates a theme of promoting good information processing which will help students build and use strategic knowledge develop metacognitive abilities acquire knowledge of the world and its cultures and stay motivated

New Directions in Educational Psychology: Learning and teaching Noel James Entwistle, 1985 Handbook of Individual Differences, Learning, and Instruction David H. Jonassen, Barbara Louise Hopkins Grabowski, 1993 Written for teachers trainers and instructional designers anyone who is responsible for designing or preparing instruction this book begins with one basic premise individual differences mediate learning at all levels and in all situations That is some learners find it easier or more difficult to learn some skills or to learn from certain forms of instruction because they vary in terms of aptitude cognitive styles personality or learning styles This volume describes most of the major differences in a readable and accessible way and demonstrates how to design various forms of instruction and predict the ease with which learners will acquire different skills Most books that discuss any learner differences focus on those that characterize special education populations whereas this book focuses on normal learners Designed as a handbook this volume is structured to provide easy and consistent access to information and answers and prescriptions and hypotheses When definitive answers are not possible because there is no research documentation the authors suggest theories designed to stimulate future research
