Print Culture in Southern Africa Caroline Davis, Archie Dick, Elizabeth le Roux, Dennis Walder, 2021-07-29 Print Culture in Southern Africa is concerned with the institutions and processes informing textual production circulation and consumption in the region over a broad historical period from the late 18th century to the present day The book is organised around three closely related themes Firstly it presents original research into the formation of reading publics and the impact of reading cultures by uncovering obscure but important reading communities and circuits of book distribution and reception A second theme is the relationship between print and politics with a particular focus on the networks of power how control over the production and circulation of printed books has shaped literary and cultural development The third theme is transnational print culture and how the control exercised by publishers in Europe and America has shaped literature and society in southern Africa Drawing together interdisciplinary research and diverse methodologies the collection encompasses a range of perspectives including literary studies anthropology publishing studies the history of the book and art history and many of the chapters are based on previously unexamined archives and collections The volume contributes to current debates and opens up new and exciting ways of furthering the study of postcolonial literature and African book history The chapters included in this book were originally published in the Journal of Southern African Studies

Digital Capitalism and its Limits Vishwas Satgar, 2025-04-01 The Fourth Industrial Revolution 4IR has been described as the next big leap in digital capitalism Digital technologies such as artificial intelligence quantum computing 3D printing and robotisation we are led to believe will bring more progress growth and development while also helping us to resolve the deep and multiple crises the world is in Billions are being invested in these technologies accompanied by sharp geopolitical rivalries to secure an edge in the control over them Volume 8 in the Democratic Marxism series invites readers to think more deeply and critically about digital capitalism and its limits While most governments in the world including South Africa have accepted a techno nationalist narrative and have deliberated on the risks for the planet and humanity the volume interrogates the effects and consequences of advances in artificial intelligence and heightened technological innovation and industrialisation on employment democracy and the climate Viewing the grand social engineering of 4IR through a Marxist lens the volume contributors engage critically with the class project of digital monopoly capitalism and its powerful totalitarian tendencies They question the dangerous technotopian imaginary shaping this digital techno shift the implications of algorithmic data extractivism the securitisation of already weak market democracies the social consequences of digital learning lack of regulation and the power dynamics in the labour process Anchored in techno realism the interdisciplinary perspective captured in this volume puts forward alternatives for democratisation and a just transition to protect human and non human life

Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17 Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds all keyed to individual developmental needs it addresses traditional questions What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities How are reading disabilities assessed How should reading disabilities be remediated To what extent is remediation possible but from multiple or alternative perspectives Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms as well as psychological and educational research the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language to poverty and prejudice and to instruction and schooling The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities Throughout their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional practices that meet the learning needs of the lowest achieving readers
