

An aerial photograph of a rugged coastline. The ocean is a deep, dark green, with white foam from breaking waves visible. Several dark, rocky islands and peninsulas are scattered across the scene. The sky is a pale, hazy blue. The overall mood is somber and powerful.

Francis an informa company Leading Missional Change Paul J. Dunbar,Tony Blair,2013-04-02 It seems that nearly everyone is talking about missional change for congregations As a result many church leaders are attempting to drive that kind of change for the ministries they lead Some succeed But many others hit a wall of considerable frustration as they find that congregations resist the very change that is so needed The reasons for this resistance are many and they are explored in this volume What is required to move a church from resistance to readiness Some resistance is deeply rooted in spiritual patterns But there are other reasons as well and they center on trust personal trust in the leaders who offer missional change For this work the authors have done extensive primary and secondary research to identify patterns and behaviors that invite missional leadership More than that they ve lived this out in their own ministries as pastors of traditional congregations This book thus offers compelling first person stories and congregational case studies alongside more generalized findings Leading Missional Change was written to support pastors and other church leaders who experience resistance to share wisdom and experience that may lead to readiness and to give hope and encouragement toward a re energizing of your own congregation

Unity ,1918 Seduction, Surrender, and Transformation Karen J. Maroda,2013-06-17 Seduction Surrender and Transformation demonstrates how interpersonal psychoanalysis obliges analysts to engage their patients with genuine emotional responsiveness so that not only the patient but the analyst too is open to ongoing transformation through the analytic experience In so doing the analyst moves from the position of an interpreting observer to that of an active participant and facilitator whose affective communications enable the patient to acquire basic self trust along with self knowledge Drawing on the current literature on affect Maroda argues that psychological change occurs through affect laden interpersonal processes Given that most patients in psychotherapy have problems with affect management the completing of cycles of affective communication between therapist and patient becomes a vitally important aspect of the therapeutic enterprise Through emotionally open responses to their patients and careful use of patient prompted self disclosures analysts can facilitate affect regulation responsibly and constructively with the emphasis always remaining on the patients experience Moments of mutual surrender the honest emotional giving over of patient to analyst and analyst to patient epitomize the emotionally intense interpersonal experiences that lead to enduring intrapsychic change Maroda s work is profoundly personal She does not hesitate to share with the reader how her own personality affects her thinking and her work Indeed she believes her theoretical and clinical preferences are emblematic of the way in which the analyst s subjectivity necessarily shapes theory choice and practice preferences in general Seduction Surrender and Transformation is not only a powerful brief for emotional honesty in the analytic relationship but also a model of the personal openness that according to Maroda psychoanalysis demands of all its practitioners
