Separate Cabins:

Separate Cabins Janet Dailey, 2011-02-01 In the four years following her husband's death Rachel MacKinley battled her loneliness by building a thriving business Then on a vacation cruise off the coast of Mexico a travel agent's error placed her in a cabin with dark eyed Gard MacKinley Delighted with his beautiful shipmate Gard felt they shared more than just the same last name His passionate kisses seemed to burn a promise of forever into her heart But even as her long denied desire blossomed in his tender embrace she feared she had fallen desperately in love with a man who wanted nothing more than a shipboard affair

Seafaring Labour Eric W. Sager, 1996 Sager argues that sailors were not misfits or outcasts but were divorced from society only by virtue of their occupation The wooden ships were small communities at sea fragments of normal society where workers lived struggled and often died With the coming of the age of steam the sailor became part of a new division of labour and a new social hierarchy at sea Sager shows that the sailor was as integral to the transition to industrial capitalism as any land worker

Cabins in Modern Norwegian Literature Ellen Rees, 2014-03-06 This book examines the significance of cabins and other temporary seasonal dwellings as important symbols in modern Norwegian cultural and literary history The author uses Michel Foucault's notion of the heterotopia an actual place that also functions imaginatively as a kind of real world utopia to examine how cabins have signified differently during successive periods from an Enlightenment trope of simplicity and moderation through the rise of tourism into a period of increasing individualism and alienation from nature For each period discussed the author relates a widely recognized real world cabin to a cluster of thematically related literary texts from a wide variety of genres Cabins in Modern Norwegian Literature considers both central canonical works such as Camilla Collett's The District Governor's Daughters Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson's Synneve Solbakken Henrik Ibsen's When We Dead Awaken and Knut Hamsun's The Growth of the Soil as well as less widely known literary works and texts from marginal genres such as hunting narratives and crime fiction In addition the book contains analyses of a few key films from the contemporary period that also activate the cabin as a motif The central argument is that while Norwegians today tend to think of cabin culture as essentially unchanging over a long span of time it has in fact changed dramatically over the past two hundred years and that it is an extremely rich and complex cultural phenomenon deeply imbedded in the construction of national identity

Within the Plantation Household Elizabeth Fox-Genovese, 2000-11-09 Documenting the difficult class relations between women slaveholders and slave women this study shows how class and race as well as gender shaped women's experiences and determined their identities Drawing upon massive research in diaries letters memoirs and oral histories the author argues that the lives of antebellum southern women enslaved and free differed fundamentally from those of northern women and that it is not possible to understand antebellum southern women by applying models derived from New England
