as a common language whenever they were unable to understand each other's speech. In later years I found it a daily necessity when traveling among the natives of New Mexico and Montana and in 1897 while living among the Crow Indians at their agency near Fort Custer I met White Swan who had served under General George A. Custer as a Scout. He had been sent across country with a message to Major Reno so escaped the fatal battle but fell in with a party of Sioux by whom he was severely wounded, clubbed on the head and left for dead. He recovered and escaped but ever after was deaf and practically dumb. However sign talk was familiar to his people and he was at little disadvantage in daytime. Always skilled in the gesture code he now became very expert. I was glad indeed to be his pupil and thus in 1897 began seriously to study the Sign Language. In 1900 I included a chapter on Sign Language in my projected Woodcraft Dictionary and began by collecting all the literature. There was much more than I expected for almost all early travellers in our Western Country have had something to say about this lingua franca of the Plains. As the material continued to accumulate the chapter grew into a Dictionary and the work of course turned out manifold greater than was expected. The Deaf our School children and various European nations as well as the Indians had large sign vocabularies needing consideration.

Nonmanuals in Sign Language Annika Herrmann, Markus Steinbach, 2013-06-20 In addition to the hands, sign languages make extensive use of nonmanual articulators such as the body, head and face to convey linguistic information. This collected volume focuses on the forms and functions of nonmanuals in sign languages. The articles discuss various aspects of specific nonmanual markers in different sign languages and enhance the fact that nonmanuals are an essential part of sign language grammar. Approaching the topic from empirical, theoretical and computational perspectives, the book is of special interest to sign language researchers, typologists and theoretical as well as computational linguists that are curious about language and modality. The articles investigate phenomena such as mouth gestures, agreement, negation, topicalization and semantic operators and discuss general topics such as language and modality, simultaneity, computer animation and the interfaces between syntax, semantics and prosody. Umiker-Sebeok, 2013-03-09 1 THE SEMIOTIC CHARACTER OF ABORIGINAL SIGN LANGUAGES In our culture language especially in its spoken manifestation is the much vaunted hallmark of humanity the diagnostic trait of man that has made possible the creation of a civilization unknown to any other terrestrial organism Through our inheritance of a culture language is in a sense bred into man And yet language is viewed as a force which can destroy us through its potential for objectification and classification According to popular mythology the naming of the animals of Eden while giving Adam and Eve a certain power over nature also destroyed the prelinguistic harmony between them and the rest of the natural world and contributed to their eventual expulsion from paradise Later the post Babel development of diverse language families isolated man from man as well as from nature Steiner 1975 Language in other words as the central force animating human culture is both our salvation and damnation Our constant war with words Shands 1971 is waged on both internal and external battlegrounds This culturally determined ambivalence toward language is particularly apparent when we encounter humans or hominoid animals who for one reason or another must rely upon gestural forms of communication
