Simone Weil A Modern Pilgrimage

Simone Weil A Modern Pilgrimage:

Simone Weil Robert Coles,1987 For three decades Robert Coles has followed Eliot's invitation. He has studied and reflected upon Simone Weil as writer, social critic, radical, and mystic and upon the enigmas of her strange brief life.

Simone Weil Dr. Robert Coles,2014-02-11 A brilliant portrait of a beloved and controversial figure in twentieth century spirituality. Simone Weil (1906-1943) was a writer and philosopher who devoted her life to a search for God while avoiding membership in organized religion. She wrote with the clarity of a brilliant mind, educated in the best French schools, the social conscience of a grass roots labor organizer, and the certainty and humility of a mystic, and she persistently carried out her search in the company of the poor and oppressed. Robert Coles's study of this strange and compelling figure includes the details of her short eventful life, her academic career, her teaching, her political and social activism, and her mystical experiences. Coles also analyzes the major themes her life encompassed: her politics, her Jewish identity, her moral concerns, her intellect, and her experience of grace. This is the best, most accessible introduction to the woman who was a spiritual influence on the life and work of so many, among them T. S. Eliot, Flannery O'Connor, Adrienne Rich, and Albert Camus. Robert Coles, M.D., was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for his five-volume Children of Crisis series. He is Professor of Psychiatry and Medical Humanities at Harvard Medical School and the James Agee Professor of Social Ethics at Harvard University and is the author of many books, including The Spiritual Life of Children, The Moral Life of Children, and Dorothy Day: A Radical Devotion.

1,000 Books to Read Before You Die James Mustich,2018-10-02 The ultimate literary bucket list. THE WASHINGTON POST Celebrate the pleasure of reading and the thrill of discovering new titles in an extraordinary book that is as compulsively readable, entertaining, surprising, and enlightening as the 1,000 plus titles it recommends. Covering fiction, poetry, science, and science fiction, memoir, travel, writing, biography, children's books, history, and more, 1,000 Books to Read Before You Die ranges across cultures and through time to offer an eclectic collection of works that each deserve to come with the recommendation: You have to read this. But it's not a proscriptive list of the great works; rather, it's a celebration of the glorious mosaic that is our literary heritage. Flip it open to any page and be transfixed by a fresh take on a very favorite book. Or come across a title you always meant to read and never got around to. Or, like browsing in the best kind of bookshop, stumble on a completely unknown author and work and feel that tingle of discovery. There are classics, of course, and unexpected treasures, too. Lists to help pick and choose like Offbeat Escapes or A Long Climb but What a View. And its alphabetical arrangement by author assures that surprises await on almost every turn of the page, with Cormac McCarthy and The Road next to Robert McCloskey, and Make Way for Ducklings by Alice Walker next to Izaak Walton. There are nuts and bolts, too: best editions to read, other books by the author if you like this, you'll like that, recommendations, and an interesting endnote of adaptations where appropriate. Add it all up, and in fact there are more than six thousand titles by nearly four thousand authors mentioned in a life-changing list for a lifetime of reading. 948 pages later, you still want more. THE

Selfless Love and Human Flourishing in Paul Tillich and Iris

Murdoch Julia T. Meszaros, 2016-03-03 In an age of self affirmation and self assertion selfless love can appear as a threat to the lover's personal well being This perception jars with the Biblical promise that we gain our life through losing it and therefore calls for a theological response In conversation with the Protestant theologian Paul Tillich and the atheistic moral philosopher and novelist Iris Murdoch Selfless Love and Human Flourishing in Paul Tillich and Iris Murdoch enquires into the anthropological grounds on which selfless love can be said to build up rather than undermine the lover's self It proposes that while the implausibility of selfless love was furthered by the modern deconstruction of the self both Tillich and Murdoch utilize this very deconstruction towards explicating and restoring the link between selfless love and human flourishing Julia T Meszaros shows that they use the modern diagnosis of the human being's lack of a stable and independent self as manifest in Sartre's existentialism in support of an understanding of the self as relational and fallen This leads them to view a loving orientation away from self and a surrender to the other as critical to the full flourishing of human selfhood In arguing that Tillich and Murdoch defend the link between selfless love and human flourishing through reference to the human being's ontological selflessness Meszaros closely engages Søren Kierkegaard's earlier attempt to keep selfless love and human flourishing in a productive dialectical tension She also examines the breakdown of this tension in the later figures of Anders Nygren Simone Weil and Jean Paul Sartre and addresses the pitfalls of this breakdown Her examination concludes by arguing that the link between selfless love and human flourishing would be strengthened by a more resolute endorsement of a personal God and of the reciprocal nature of selfless love
