American Museums and the Persuasive Impulse J. Donald Ragsdale, 2009-01-14 In American Museums and the Persuasive Impulse Professor Ragsdale assesses American museums as means of visual persuasion He demonstrates that museums their contents and their manners of display are as capable of influencing visitors as speeches or advertisements and that an awareness of their social influence provides an insight into the cultural roles of museums The book considers a diverse array of museums ranging from such national cultural icons as the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Art Institute to such city museums as the Philadelphia Museum of Art and the Los Angeles Country Museum of Art and includes separate chapters on museums devoted to modern and contemporary art and to the specialized collections of individual connoisseurs In addition to these primarily art museums Professor Ragsdale assesses museums devoted to collections such as the National Air and Space Museum and to commemoration and remembrance such as the National World War II Museum and the US

Holocaust Memorial Museum American Museums and the Persuasive Impulse makes an important contribution to the theory of persuasion and to visual communication art history and museology It utilizes a theory of visual signs based on the semiotic theory of C S Peirce In so doing it demonstrates that museum buildings the art and other objects contained within them and the spaces used for display may all be thought of in terms of means of social influence

When Michelangelo Was Modern, 2022-05-02 Through case studies of collectors patrons and agents who redefined collecting and the art market this volume illuminates how the changing status of the artist rise of connoisseurship role of intermediaries and new patterns of consumption established models for collecting and display that resemble those still practiced today The book presents new research by recognized scholars who examine the motivations of collectors and agents emphasizing how their collecting patronage and advocacy could require support of artists whose reputations were not fully established Together the essays invite consideration of works that are familiar in art historical terms but less so as markers of the socio economic shifts of a particular cultural moment This book evolved from a symposium When Michelangelo was Modern The Art Market and Collecting in Italy 1450 1650 organized by the Center for the History of Collecting that was held at The Frick Collection on April 12 and 13 2019 Both the book and the symposium were made possible through the generous support of the Robert H Smith Family Foundation The book is published in association with The Frick Collection
