Hydrographic Office,1944 Fruit Fly Research and Development in Africa - Towards a Sustainable Management Strategy to Improve Horticulture Sunday Ekesi,Samira A. Mohamed,Marc De Meyer,2016-12-01 Horticultural sector presents many opportunities for economic development and improving livelihood of growers but several factors constrain production and limit the potential for trade of fruits and vegetables Tephritid fruit flies constitute a major constraint They cause enormous losses through direct feeding damage and loss of market opportunities through imposition of quarantine restrictions by importing countries to prevent entry and their establishment In Africa several native Ceratitis and Dacus spp and exotic Bactrocera and Zeugodacus spp species inflict considerable losses to horticulture causing losses ranging from 30 90% Over the past 10 years of R coverage of African native species has been limited largely to Bactrocera oleae and Ceratitis capitata which are not economically important species in many Africa countries Indeed no book exist that have explicitly addressed economically important African fruit flies and none of the various reviews have specifically focused on the status of the bioecology economic impact and management of exotic and native fruit flies including several potentially invasive Dacus species attacking vegetables in Africa

This book consolidates this status of knowledge and socio economic impact of various intervention techniques that are currently being applied across Africa The timing of the book is especially pertinent due to the changing fruit fly landscape in Africa caused by arrivals of the highly destructive alien invasives Bactrocera dorsalis B zonata and B latifrons and the priorities African countries have placed recently on export of fruits and vegetables to international markets This is an important reference material for researchers academics and students that are keen at improving horticulture and enhancing food and nutrition security in Africa and beyond

Compendium of Auditory and Speech Tasks Joy Stackhouse, Maggie Vance, Michelle Pascoe, Bill Wells, 2007-09-27 The book summarises research findings from a range of projects using a set of auditory and speech procedures designed for the psycholinguistic framework developed by Stackhouse and Wells 1997 These procedures have been used with children and adolescents with a range of difficulties associated with cleft lip and palate dysarthria dyspraxia phonological impairment Down syndrome dyslexia stammering autism semantic pragmatic difficulties general learning difficulties and disadvantaged backgrounds The procedures have also been used with normally developing children in the age range of 3 7 years As a result the book includes descriptions of typical performance on the procedures so that atypical can be identified more easily In addition as the materials were used in a longitudinal study of children s speech and literacy development between the age of 4 and 7 years we can highlight which procedures will help in identifying children a who are likely to persist with their speech difficulties and b have associated literacy difficulties
