Hardoy,Diana Mitlin,David Satterthwaite,2013-11-05 New edition of Environmental Problems in Third World Cities Cities in Africa Asia and Latin America contain some of the world s most life and health threatening human environments Environment related diseases and injuries cause millions of preventable deaths each year In many squatter settlements children are 40 to 50 times more likely to die before the age of five than they would be in Europe or North America and most such deaths are environment related

Many cities also cause serious environmental degradation to their surroundings and increasingly contribute to global warming. This updated and much expanded edition of the classic Environmental Problems in Third World Cities describes environmental problems and their effect on human health, local ecosystems and global cycles. It points to the political causes that underpin many of these problems, including ineffective unaccountable governments and aid agencies' reluctance to work with the urban poor. It also highlights innovative solutions such as high quality low cost homes and neighbourhoods developed by urban poor groups working with local non governmental organizations. Local Agenda 21s developed by municipal governments in partnership with community organizations. In their analysis the authors show that cities can meet sustainable development goals. There are practical affordable solutions to their environmental problems but most of these depend on more competent and accountable city governments and on more support for low income households and their organizations. The book also outlines the changes needed international aid agencies to support this.

PRAISE FOR THE FIRST EDITION It is rare to encounter a work as authoritative and accessible as this. It is a mine of useful information from cities in every corner of the Third World which does not shy away from the immensity of the problems but says as much about the solutions to them as about the problems themselves. Jonathon Porritt. Well written and very accessible. The Geographical Journal. Of value to students, teachers, practitioners, policy makers and aid agencies. Third World Planning Review. A valuable resource for understanding the underlying problems, this book offers practical alternatives. Cities International. The Cumulative Book Index, 1989. Water and Sanitation in the World's Cities Un-Habitat, 2013-06-17. This is surely the most impressive and important publication to come out of the UN system for many years. Peter Adamson, founder, New Internationalist and author and researcher of UNICEF's The State of the World's Children from 1980 to 1995. The world's governments agreed at the Millennium Summit to halve by 2015 the number of people who lack access to safe water. With rapidly growing urban populations the challenge is immense. Water and Sanitation in the World's Cities is a comprehensive and authoritative assessment of the problems and how they can be addressed. This influential publication by the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, UN HABITAT, sets out in detail the scale of inadequate provision of water and sanitation. It describes the impacts on health and economic performance, showing the potential gains of remedial action; it analyses the proximate and underlying causes of poor provision and identifies information gaps affecting resource allocation; it outlines the consequences of further deterioration and it explains how resources and institutional capacities, public, private and community, can be used to deliver proper services through integrated water resource management.
