Mangrove forests are a dominant feature of tropical coasts Like their terrestrial counterparts these forests are under threat worldwide through a variety of destructive human practices As is also the case with tropical terrestrial forests management decisions about mangrove ecosystems are currently being made often without adequate fundamental knowledge of the processes controlling natural ecosystem function Catalog of Worldwide Tidal Bore Occurrences and Characteristics S.

Guy Plint, 2009-04-13 This book celebrates the professional career of Harold Reading who has played a leading role in the development of the IAS and has been at the roots of the development of facies sedimentology as an art in itself and as a major tool in the broader field of geology This special collection of original research papers from Harold Reading's students covers the wide range of his research interests and reflects the power of facies sedimentology today State of the art research papers in the important field of facies sedimentology a festschrift to one of the great names in sedimentology Sea Surface Studies R. Devoy, 2012-12-06 The oceans are vast with two thirds of our planet being covered by a thick layer of water the depth of which can be likened to flying above the earth's surface at an altitude of 30 000 feet 9 800 m Good to play in essential for life but deadly to breathe water is important to all organisms on the planet and the oceans form its major reservoir containing approximately 97 per cent of all freely available surface water In spite of this obvious importance mankind has still much to learn about this ocean environment Study of the oceans has grown enormously since the eighteenth and nineteenth century voyages of scientific discovery expanding greatly in the period post 1945 One of the subjects that has blossomed in this period has been the study of the ocean's surface and in particular the study of sea level and related sea surface changes Indeed this topic may even be termed popular as reflected in the growing number of general geomorphology physical geology and oceanography texts which now give space to the subject Australian Coastal Systems Andrew D.

Short, 2019-08-29 This book describes the entire coast and beaches and barrier systems of Australia It covers the coastal processes and systems that form and impact Australia's 30 000 km coast 12 000 beaches and 2750 barrier systems These processes include geology geomorphology climate waves tides currents sediment supply as well as coastal ecosystems The coast is divided into tropical northern and southern temperate provinces within which are seven divisions 23 regions and 354 coastal sediment compartments each of which is described in detail in the 34 chapters Within these systems are the full range of wave through tide dominated beaches and barriers ranging from cheniers to massive transgressive dune systems together with a range of onshore and longshore sand transport systems This is an up to date reference for the entire coast its present condition and likely responses to the impacts of climate change Sedimentary Environments Harold G.

Reading,2013-07-03 Sedimentary Environments is one of the most distinguished and influential textbooks in the earth sciences published in the last 20 years The first and second editions both won universal praise and became classic works in sedimentology Since the publication of the last edition the study of sedimentary environments and facies has made great strides with major advances in facies modelling sequence stratigraphy and basin modelling The 3rd edition of this classic text will likely set the benchmark even higher and needless to say will continue being the textbook of choice for sedimentology students The latest edition of a classic text Incorporates all the latest advances in dynamic stratigraphy Will remain the textbook of choice for upper level undergraduate and graduate students in sedimentology The Australian Soil

Classification , National Committee on Soil and Terrain,R Isbell,2016-01-21 The Australian Soil Classification provides a framework for organising knowledge about Australian soils by allocating soils to classes via a key Since its publication in 1996 this book has been widely adopted and formally endorsed as the official national system It has provided a means of communication among scientists and land managers and has proven to be of particular value in land resource survey and research programs environmental studies and education Classification is a basic requirement of all science and needs to be periodically revised as knowledge increases This Second Edition of The Australian Soil Classification includes updates from a working group of the National Committee on Soil and Terrain NCST especially in regards to new knowledge about acid sulfate soils sulfidic materials Modifications include expanding the classification to incorporate different kinds of sulfidic materials the introduction of subaqueous soils as well as new Vertosol subgroups new Hydrosol family criteria and the consistent use of the term reticulate All soil orders except for Ferrosols and Sodosols are affected by the changes Muddy

Woodroffe, 2002 Coasts are some of the most rapidly changing places on earth Understanding the natural adjustments that occur between coastal landforms and the processes that influence them is essential for the better management of coastal resources Coasts provides a necessary background in geomorphology for those studying coastal systems It describes the landforms that occur on the coast their responses to the processes that shape them and the pattern of evolution that can be determined for different types of coast over thousands of years Numerous examples from around the world are used to illustrate the variety of environments Particular attention is paid to coastal morphodynamics the co adjustment of process and form on rocky reef sandy deltaic estuarine and muddy coasts This valuable text for advanced undergraduate and graduate students is well illustrated and contains an extensive reference section It will also be of great interest to environmental scientists geologists coastal managers and planners
