Love to Hate Jody Roy, 2002-08-27 Why is the simple impulsive question we ask when confronted by horrible acts of hatred and violence Why do students shoot fellow students or employees their coworkers Why do mothers drown their children or husbands stalk and kill their wives Love to Hate challenges us to turn this question upon ourselves at a deeper level Why as a culture are we so fascinated by these acts Why do we bestow celebrity on the perpetrators while allowing the victims to fade into a second death of obscurity Are we as Pope John Paul II famously accused a culture of death And if so how can we break free of this unacknowledged aspect of the cycle of violence Unlike those who point solely to media imagery splintered families or lax gun control laws in search of the roots of America's endemic violence Jody M Roy suggests that we all must be held responsible She argues that we reveal our love affair with hatred and violence in the ways we think and speak in our daily lives and in our popular culture The very words we use function as building blocks of callousness and contempt betraying our immersion in subtexts of violence and hatred These subtexts are further revealed in our complex attitudes toward street gangs school shooters serial killers and hate groups and the paroxysms of violence they unleash As spectators driven by our impulse to watch we become an integral part of the equation of violence In the book's final section Freeing Ourselves of Our Obsession with Hatred and Violence Roy offers practical steps we can take as parents consumers and voters to free ourselves from linguistic and cultural complicity and to help create in America a culture of life

Media Literacy Gretchen Schwarz, Pamela U. Brown, 2005

Policy, Belief and Practice in the Secondary English Classroom Bethan Marshall, Simon Gibbons, Louise Hayward, Ernest Spencer, 2018-11-01 Studies of comparative classroom practice in the teaching of secondary English are limited especially when it comes to exploration of the day to day practice of English teachers in the secondary classroom This book presents a case study analysis of secondary classroom practice in three countries Canada England and Scotland Each country has had different degrees of state involvement within the secondary English curriculum over the last twenty years England has had the highest degree of state involvement in that it has had several statutory national curricula and a variety of assessment regimes Scotland has had a non statutory curriculum and no national tests and Canada has had no national curriculum at all with education being determined at province level and each province varying its policies The research adopts a case study approach involving both classroom observation and interviews with teachers Through this the authors

explore the impact of state involvement on the reality of what happens in secondary English classrooms The book invites readers to consider the applicability of the findings to their own contexts to examine their own practice in the light of this and to consider the nature of the relationships between policy personal belief and practice in the teaching of English The Teacher's Guide to Media Literacy Cyndy Scheibe, Faith Rogow, 2012 A Deeper Sense of Literacy is the first book to suggest that media literacy is both a content area and an approach to teaching that can be integrated into any subject area It combines theory and practical application in a way that addresses the most important questions related to media literacy in education today what is it why is it important how can you teach it across a wide range of curriculum areas and grade levels and does it work Rather than focusing on how to teach media literacy Scheibe and Rogow focus on actually using media literacy to teach lessons across the content areas Exploring Teachers in Fiction and Film Melanie Shoffner, 2016-03-31 This book about teachers as characters in popular media examines what can be learned from fictional teachers for the purposes of educating real teachers Its aim is twofold to examine the constructed figure of the teacher in film television and text and to apply that examination in the context of teacher education By exploring the teacher construct readers are able to consider how popular fiction and film have influenced society's understandings and views of classroom teachers Organized around four main themes Identifying with the Teacher Image Constructing the Teacher with Content Imaging the Teacher as Savior The Teacher Construct as Commentary the chapters examine the complicated mixture of fact stereotype and misrepresentation that create the image of the teacher in the public eye today This examination in turn allows teacher educators to use popular culture as curriculum Using the fictional teacher as a text preservice and practicing teachers can examine positive and negative and often misleading representations of teachers in order to develop as teachers themselves

Learning to Teach English in the Secondary School Jon Davison, Jane Dowson, 2009-05-12 How do you approach teaching English in the modern classroom What is expected of a would be English teacher This best selling textbook combines theory and practice to present a broad introduction to the opportunities and challenges of teaching English in secondary school classrooms Each chapter explains the background to debates about teaching the subject and provides tasks practical teaching approaches and further reading to explore issues and ideas in relation to school experience Already a major text for many university teacher education courses this new edition has been thoroughly updated in the light of recent revisions to the National Curriculum for English examination syllabuses and the Standards for Qualified Teacher Status As well as containing critical explorations of the history and definitions of the subject and policies such as the Secondary National Strategy that are appropriate to Professional and Masters level PGCE study other chapters present a broad range of effective innovative approaches to teaching such crucial areas as reading and writing speaking and listening drama media studies and information and communications technology grammar poetry and language study Shakespeare post 16 English language and literature Written particularly with the new and student teacher in mind this book offers principles and practical examples of teaching and learning within a 21st Century context in which new notions of literacy compete with demands of national assessment Taking these changing principles as a starting point the text also addresses questions about the nature of initial teacher preparation and raises issues concerning standards based teacher education mentoring in schools and monitoring the development of a student teacher
