Marine Protected Areas Network in the South China Sea Vu Hai Dang, 2014-01-09 The once pristine and rich marine environment of the South China Sea is degrading at an alarming rate due to the rapid socioeconomic development of the region Despite this and due mainly to complicated sovereignty and maritime disputes coastal States have not been able to develop effective regional cooperation to safeguard the shared marine environment Marine Protected Areas Network in the South China Sea discusses legal and political measures to support the development of a network of marine protected areas in the South China Sea Such a network if properly developed would not only help to protect the marine environment and resources of the region but also contribute to decreasing the tension among its coastal States These measures are suggested in accordance with international law based on the specific geopolitical context of the South China Sea region and take into consideration experiences in developing regional networks of marine protected areas from other marine regions

Climate Change and Human Rights Stephen Humphreys, 2008

Coastal State Jurisdiction Over Living Resources in the Exclusive Economic Zone Camille Goodman, 2021 The aim of this series is to publish important and original pieces of research on all aspects of international law Topics that are given particular prominence are those which while of interest to the academic lawyer also have important bearing on issues which touch the actual conduct of international relations Nonetheless the series is wide in scope and include monographs on the history and philosophical foundations of international law Book jacket

Sovereignty and Territorial Temptation Christopher R. Rossi, 2017-04-27 This powerful reworking of the liberal tradition of international law uses Grotius as the vehicle for understanding coming challenges to the global commons Fundamental problems of scarcity sovereignty anachronistic thinking and territorial temptation are interwoven in historical and contemporary contexts to illuminate the tendency among states to share resources but only when necessary

The Law of War Ingrid Detter De Lupis, 2013 The third edition of Ingrid Detter s authoritative work explores the changing legal context of modern warfare in light of events over the last decade The new edition covers post 9 11 events and the resulting changes in the ethos of war It analyses the role of military companies sometimes authorised by States to act in war like situations and examines what their legitimacy means for international society The edition also discusses certain intrinsic rules in the Law of War such as rules giving individuals the right to be spared genocide torture slavery and at least nowadays apartheid and assure them basic democratic rights

The Extension of Coastal State Jurisdiction in Enclosed or Semi-Enclosed Seas Mitja Grbec, 2013-12-04 The current jurisdictional status of the Mediterranean Sea is remarkable Nearly 50 per cent of the Mediterranean waters are high seas and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of coastal States This situation means that there are no points in the Mediterranean Sea where the coasts of two States would be more than 400 nautical miles apart Such a legal situation generally prevents coastal States from adopting and enforcing their laws on the Mediterranean high seas in respect of many important fields such as the protection and preservation of the marine environment as well as the conservation of marine living resources The jurisdictional landscape of the Adriatic Sea as a sub sea and sub region of the Mediterranean is even more interesting Croatia has proclaimed an Ecological and Fisheries Protection Zone Slovenia has proclaimed a Zone of Ecological Protection while Italy has adopted a framework law for the proclamation of its Zone of Ecological Protection without proclaiming its regime in the Adriatic It is noteworthy that if all Mediterranean and Adriatic States would proclaim an Exclusive Economic Zone EEZ there would not be a single stretch of high seas left in the entire Mediterranean Sea Both the Adriatic and Mediterranean fall in the category of enclosed or semi enclosed seas regulated by Part IX of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea UNCLOS This book assesses the legal nature of Part IX of UNCLOS and discusses potential benefits of the extension of coastal State jurisdiction proclamation of EEZs and or similar sui generis zones particularly in light of the recent calls towards an integrated and holistic approach to the management of different activities in the Mediterranean Sea It examines the actual or potential extension of coastal State jurisdiction in the Adriatic Sea against the background of similar extensions elsewhere in the Mediterranean and against the background of relevant EU policies It additionally explores whether Part IX of UNCLOS imposes any duties of cooperation in relation to the extension of coastal State jurisdiction in enclosed or semi enclosed seas and puts forward practical suggestions as to how the issue of extension of coastal State jurisdiction could be approached in a way which would enhance States existing cooperation and improve the overall governance in the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas This book will be of interest to policymakers and academics and students of international law and the law of the sea

Index to Legal Periodicals & Books, 2006 Property Rights and Natural Resources Richard Barnes, 2009-04-22 Winner of the SLS Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship 2009 The use of private property rights to regulate natural resources is a controversial topic because it touches upon two critical issues the allocation of wealth in society and the conservation and management of limited resources This book explores the extension of private property rights and market mechanisms to natural resources in international areas from a legal perspective It uses marine fisheries to illustrate the issues that can arise in the design of regulatory regimes for natural resources If property rights are used to regulate natural resources then it is essential that we understand how the law and values embedded within legal systems shape the development and operation of property rights in practice The author constructs a version of property that articulates both the private and public function of property This restores some much needed balance to property discourse He also assesses the impact of international law on the use of property rights a much neglected topic and shows how different legal and socio political values that inhere in different legal regimes fundamentally shape the construction of property rights Despite the many claimed benefits to be had from the use of private property rights based management systems the author warns against an uncritical acceptance of this approach and in particular questions whether private property rights are the most suitable and effective arrangement of regulating of natural resources He suggests that much more complex forms of holding such as stewardship may be required to meet physical legal and moral imperatives associated with natural resources

Towards Sustainable Coastal Development Tony George

Puthucherril, 2014-10-02 Coastal areas around the world are severely stressed due to a myriad of human activities and marine pollution They are now detrimentally being affected by climate change and sea level rise as well One major theater most acutely impacted by these phenomena is coastal South Asia an overcrowded region with low adaptive capacities Drawing on the experiences of coastal countries and regions beyond South Asia Towards Sustainable Coastal Development Institutionalizing Integrated Coastal Zone Management and Coastal Climate Change Adaptation in South Asia recommends operationalizing integrated coastal zone management and linking the same with coastal climate change adaptation under appropriately crafted coastal laws to facilitate a move towards sustainable coastal development
