The narrative employs a reflexive ethnographic approach to examine the reflections of each teacher during one academic year The book explores the teachers understandings of socially just teaching their pedagogical transformations and a vision of how science as a discipline was important in terms of enacting a culturally sustaining pedagogy. The reflexive ethnographic perspective enables consideration of the implications of teachers positionality in teaching science to marginalized and or underrepresented students in informal learning contexts Through these examinations the book explains how collaboration was vital in the teachers efforts to become insiders in the setting and engage in culturally sustaining pedagogy The book also narrates the teachers development leading to articulation of a framework identified as the zone of pedagogical potential Finally the book uses the teachers reflections to consider the affordances of learning science The book concludes with a discussion of the implications from this research for promoting equitable practices in informal settings as well as the potential for those practices being useful in formal settings Thus the book should be of interest to researchers teachers educators and students of education and in particular science education Small Press ,1997 Clearing ,1997
