Sharks in the Shallows W. Clay Creswell, 2021-06-14 A detailed account of over one hundred shark related incidents on the coast of the Carolinas from a shark bite investigator Powerful and mysterious sharks inspire both fascination and fear Worldwide oceans are home to some five hundred species and of those fifty six are known to reside in or pass through the waters off the coast of both North and South Carolina At any given time waders swimmers and surfers enjoying these waters are frequently within just one hundred feet of a shark While it's unnerving to know that sharks often swim just below the surface in the shallows W Clay Creswell a shark bite investigator for the Shark Research Institute's Global Shark Attack File explains that attacks on humans are extremely rare In 2019 the International Shark Attack File confirmed sixty four unprovoked attacks on humans including three in North Carolina and one in South Carolina While acknowledging that they pose real dangers to humans Creswell believes the fear of sharks is greatly exaggerated During his sixteen year association with the Shark Research Institute he has investigated more than one hundred shark related incidents and has maintained a database of all shark human encounters along the Carolina coastlines back to 1817 Creswell uses this data to expose the truth and history of this often sensationalized topic Beyond the statistics related to attacks in the Carolina waters Sharks in the Shallows offers a history of shark human interactions and an introduction to the world of shark attacks

Creswell details the conditions that increase a person's chances of an encounter profiles the three species most often involved in attacks and reveals the months and time of day with the highest probability of an encounter With a better understanding of sharks responses to their environment and what motivates them to attack humans he hopes people will develop a greater appreciation of the invaluable role sharks play in our marine environment The Devil's Teeth Susan Casey,2006-05-30 A journalist's obsession brings her to a remote island off the California coast home to the world's most mysterious and fearsome predators and the strange band of surfer scientists who follow them Susan Casey was in her living room when she first saw the great white sharks of the Farallon Islands their dark fins swirling around a small motorboat in a documentary These sharks were the alphas among alphas some longer than twenty feet and there were too many to count even more incredible this congregation was taking place just twenty seven miles off the coast of San Francisco In a matter of months Casey was being hoisted out of the early winter swells on a crane up a cliff face to the barren surface of Southeast Farallon Island dubbed by sailors in the 1850s the devil's teeth There she joined Scot Anderson and Peter Pyle the two biologists who bunk down during shark season each fall in the island's one habitable building a haunted 135 year old house spackled with lichen and gull guano Two days later she got her first glimpse of the famous terrifying jaws up close and she was instantly hooked her fascination soon yielded to obsession and an invitation to return for a full season But as Casey readied herself for the eight week stint she had no way of preparing for what she would find among the dangerous forgotten islands that have banished every campaign for civilization in the past two hundred years The Devil's Teeth is a vivid dispatch from an otherworldly outpost a story of crossing the boundary between society and an untamed place where humans are neither wanted nor needed Sharks of the Pacific Northwest Alessandro De Maddalena,Antonella Preti,Tarik Polansky,2007 Those who think of sharks as something only found in tropical waters will be surprised to learn that there are 18 species of sharks in the cool waters of the Pacific Northwest from the 27 inch brown catshark to the 39 foot basking shark Sharks of the Pacific Northwest provides for the identification of these species with spectacular photographs and accurate paintings and drawings plus summaries of the sharks classification morphology distribution habitat diet reproduction and behaviour It also includes a concise general account of shark evolution anatomy and physiology as well as discussion of attacks on humans and details of shark fisheries It is primarily aimed at a broad non technical readership but its up to date and detailed contents make it a useful tool for professional biologists and zoologists Carnivore Minds Gay A.
