She Took To The Woods A Biography And Selected Writings Of Louise Dickinson Rich:

She Took to the Woods Alice Arlen, 2000-01-01 Longtime fans of Rich's writing will welcome this engaging and thoughtful biography of her life. There is also a wonderful section that includes many of Rich's essays and stories which were published in magazines but never appeared in book form as well as excerpts from her journal and letters. Her Place in the Woods

David Hakensen, 2025-09-10 The biography of one of Minnesota's most beloved nature writers from her career in the city to her rustic cabin on Gunflint Lake. During the late 1950s through the early 1970s Helen Hoover's stories and essays of life in the wilderness on northern Minnesota's Gunflint Lake published in popular magazines and several bestselling books including The Gift of the Deer in 1966 and A Place in the Woods in 1969 found millions of fans and earned her accolades alongside nature writers like Sigurd Olson, Rachel Carson, Sally Carrighar, and Calvin Rutstrum. Hoover's own unlikely history of leaving a corporate career in Chicago for a small cabin without electricity or running water with no interest in hunting or fishing is just one chapter of the remarkable life that David Hakensen describes in Her Place in the Woods. This first complete biography illuminates how Helen Hoover 1910-1984 made a place for herself and for countless readers in as she put it the world of her time. Hoover defied convention. Self-trained and without an academic degree, she worked in the male-dominated metallurgical field as a researcher at International Harvester where she solved a long-standing problem with the manufacture of discs for farm implements and earned a patent. She and her husband Adrian, a commercial artist, had long dreamed of moving to a remote cabin in the woods. As they started the long return drive to Chicago after a summer spent on Gunflint Lake, they finally made the leap, quitting their jobs with a long-distance phone call from Grand Marais and figuring out the rest as they went. The Hoovers were woefully unprepared for life off the grid and slowly learned how to convert sheds into chicken coops and fend off bears. Social encounters presented their own challenges with Helen's fiery personality leading to clashes with hunters and other Gunflint neighbors. Gradually the Hoovers settled into the rhythms of their remote homestead and Helen would craft a prolific literary livelihood from her keen observations of nature and encounters with animals in the surrounding woods. Her Place in the Woods captures both an awakening to the power and fragility of the natural world and the efforts and talents of an extraordinary woman defining herself as a writer. Though Helen Hoover would move on from the secluded North Woods as she wrote in her final book The Years of the Forest, "From this time on it would be both here and with me wherever I might be as long as I should live." Merry Wives and Others Penelope

Fritzer, Bartholomew Bland, 2010-06-28 In many ways the history of domestic humor writing is also a history of domestic life in the twentieth century. For many years domestic humor was written primarily by females; significant contributions from male writers began as times and family structures changed. It remains timeless because of its basis on the relationships between husbands and wives, parents and children, houses and inhabitants, pets and their owners, chores and their doers, and neighbors. This work is a historical and literary survey of humorists who wrote about home. It begins with a chapter on the social context of and attitudes toward traditional domestic roles and housewives The following chapters beginning with the 1920s and continuing through today cover the different time periods and the foremost American domestic humorists and the humor written by surrogate parents grown children about their childhood families husbands and Canadian and English writers Also covered are the differences among various writers toward traditional domestic roles some like Erma Bombeck and Judith Viorst embraced them while others like Caryl Kristenson and Marilyn Kentz resisted them Common themes such as the isolation and competitiveness of housework home as an idealized metaphysical goal and ongoing physical challenge and the urban suburban and rural life are also explored
