Heteromation, and Other

Stories of Computing and Capitalism Hamid R. Ekbia, Bonnie A. Nardi, 2017-05-11 An exploration of a new division of labor between machines and humans in which people provide value to the economy with little or no compensation. The computerization of the economy and everyday life has transformed the division of labor between humans and machines, shifting many people into work that is hidden, poorly compensated, or accepted as part of being a user of digital technology. Through our clicks and swipes, logins and profiles, emails and posts, we are more or less willingly participating in digital activities that yield economic value to others but little or no return to us. Hamid Ekbia and Bonnie Nardi call this kind of participation the extraction of economic value from low cost or free labor in computer-mediated networks: heteromation. In this book, they explore the social and technological processes through which economic value is extracted from digitally mediated work, the nature of the value created, and what prompts people to participate in the process. Arguing that heteromation is a new logic of capital accumulation, Ekbia and Nardi consider different kinds of heteromated labor: communicative labor seen in user-generated content on social media; cognitive labor including microwork and self-service; creative labor from gaming environments to literary productions; emotional labor often hidden within paid jobs; and organizing labor made up of collaborative groups such as citizen scientists. Ekbia and Nardi then offer a utopian vision: heteromation refigured to bring end users more fully into the prosperity of capitalism.

The Mechanics of Falling and Other Stories Catherine Brady, 2009-02-28 The stories in this collection explore those moments when the seemingly fixed coordinates of our lives abruptly give way: when mother love fractures, a faithful husband abandons his family, a conscientious middle-class life implodes, or loyalty demands an excruciating sacrifice. The characters share a fundamental predicament: the struggle to name and embrace some faith that can break their fall. In equal measure, they hunger for and resist this elusive possibility, and what it demands of them. The Mechanics of Falling and Other Stories deals with a range of circumstances and relationships, and with characters who must decide what they are willing to risk for the sake of transformation or for the right to refuse it. The stories trace the effort to traverse the boundaries between one state and another, between conviction and self-doubt, recklessness and despair, resignation and rebellion. And each story propels the reader to imagine what will happen next, to register the unfinished and always precarious quality of every life.
