Monument Avenue Commission Report Richmond (Va.). Monument Avenue Commission, 2018 In June 2017 Richmond Mayor Levar M Stoney announced the formation of a commission to determine what to do with Confederate monuments located on historic Monument Avenue Throughout the United States many cities were grappling with what to do with Confederate symbols in public spaces The statues on Monument Avenue have been a source of pride and shame for the City s residents from the time of their installations As the City has become more ethnically politically and socioeconomically diverse tolerance for the monuments artistic and culture meaning has shifted over time In essence it is a question of whether or not Monument Avenue reflects the citizenry and its values It is for these reasons the Commission was formed and tasked to determine how best to reconcile a particular landscape viewed as both sacred and profane During the course of this work the Monument Avenue Commission has mined almost two thousand letters devoted considerable time in public forums and tirelessly researched to ensure this report reflects our diverse public and the best scholarship to craft a solution that is best for Richmond This report is the first comprehensive review of Monument Avenue commissioned by the City in over 50 years
