

The background of the entire image is a photograph of a cave interior. In the upper half, there are several large, yellowish-brown stalactites hanging from the ceiling, illuminated by warm, low-key lighting. Below the stalactites, the cave wall is covered in a large, reddish-brown prehistoric painting of a bison or aurochs, shown in profile facing left. The painting is done in a dark pigment, possibly ochre or charcoal, and shows the animal's head, horns, and body with some internal details like ribs and legs.

The Gods' Machines Wun Chok Bong, 2008-05-27 Based on the author's decipherment of prehistoric carvings and the application of mathematical measurements The Gods Machines shows how unknown phenomena from Angkor Wat to Stonehenge to crop circles are actually powerhouses built by an advanced extraterrestrial civilization for tapping electromagnetic energy The book traces the development of that civilization on Earth over 5 000 years revealing how all these structures are aligned according to a universal formula an angle of 135 degrees at which Earth's energy has been tapped by the alien creators of these monuments These fascinating theories not only explain our distant past but also open the door to a future of power technology and space travel Megalithic sites such as Newgrange and Stonehenge are constructed with quartz and iron rich stones with electrical conduction properties minerals also found atop Aztec temple and inside crop circles These stones according to the author served as dry cell batteries when heated and stressed and supplied energy to the builders traveling vehicles Most interestingly the author has tested his theory on today's crop circles The Gods Machines is certain to stimulate debate among readers interested in alternative history ancient civilization and extraterrestrial intelligence

Prehistoric Europe Julian Heath, 2025-08-07 A full-color examination of 50 fascinating and important archaeological discoveries from prehistoric Europe. Countless archaeological sites and artefacts relating to the diverse prehistoric peoples who occupied the landscapes of Europe thousands of years ago have been unearthed, either by archaeologists or by lucky individuals who stumbled across them by chance. Prehistoric Europe: 50 Great Discoveries examines a small but carefully chosen selection of sites and artefacts from among this abundance of archaeological evidence, all of which are remarkable and provides fascinating insights into Europe's distant past and its long-lost prehistoric societies. These 50 discoveries cover some sixty thousand years of European prehistory, beginning in the Middle Paleolithic (Old Stone Age), the time of our enigmatic ancient cousins, the Neanderthals, and ending in the Iron Age, the time of Celtic society, and marking the last chapter in the remarkable story of prehistoric Europe. Lying between the Middle Paleolithic and the Iron Age, discoveries are those from the Mesolithic, Middle Stone Age, Neolithic, New Stone Age, Chalcolithic, Copper Age, and Bronze Age Europe. The Mesolithic, Neolithic, Chalcolithic, and Bronze Age mark the time of Europe's final hunter-gatherer societies, its first farming communities, and the emergence of metalworking respectively Thea Stilton and the Secret of the Old Castle (Thea Stilton #10) Thea Stilton, 2012-03-01

Geronimo's sister Thea Stilton narrates this action-packed adventure. When the Thea Sisters' friend Bridget returns to Scotland for a family emergency, the five mice offer to help. And when Bridget goes missing, they have to rush to Scotland to help find her. Along the way, the Thea Sisters encounter Celtic legends, cryptic messages, and hidden treasures on a trip that's full of surprises. The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 2005 Conserving Africa's Mega-Diversity in the Anthropocene Joris P. G. M. Cromsigt, Sally Archibald, Norman Owen-Smith, 2017-03-02

This book synthesises key insights from a century of ecological research and monitoring efforts in one of Africa's oldest protected areas. Secrets of the Lost Races Rene Noorbergen, 2001

An increasing number of historical and archaeological finds made around the world have been classified as out-of-place artifacts (OOPArts). They have been called this because they appear unexpectedly among the ruins of the past with no evidence of a preceding period of development; their technological sophistication seems far beyond the capabilities of ancient peoples. Drawing on the literature and art of the Chaldeans, Sumerians, Babylonians, and others, Rene Noorbergen's contention is that a superior race of man was responsible for these scientific marvels that bear testimony to a civilization with technology comparable to our own. Echoes of Africa's Past. Archaeological explorations in the Anthropocene Savino di Lernia, 2025-05-30

Marking the 70th anniversary of the Libyan Italian archaeological Mission in the Tadrart Acacus and Messak, this volume offers a multidisciplinary reflection on Africa's deep past and its enduring legacies in the Anthropocene. By tracing the echoes of human-environment interactions across time, it highlights how archaeological research continues to reshape our understanding of adaptation, resilience, and transformation in African societies. Drawing on interdisciplinary approaches including palaeoecology, bioarchaeology, rock art analysis, the archaeology of food production, and their various connections and networks, this book challenges outdated Eurocentric narratives by foregrounding African agency and complexity. Key themes include, among others, the Holocene environmental changes that influenced settlement patterns, the significance of rock art in interpreting past belief systems, and the impact of colonial trade and imperial expansion on indigenous communities. Echoes of Africa's Past serves as a resource for archaeologists, historians, anthropologists, and heritage scholars, offering fresh perspectives on Africa's dynamic past and its relevance to debates on sustainability and cultural heritage in the Anthropocene. Archaeological knowledge is incremental and hard-won. It is assembled through time-intensive study of fragmentary evidence, and its corpus represents intergenerational effort. Though sometimes based on the study of stones, our interpretations are not written in them. Our working hypotheses typically run ahead of the evidence needed to assess them. Expanded investigations, new methods, and changing premises compel revision, and sometimes outright rejection of earlier ideas. Typological aids deemed useful by earlier generations may outlive their usefulness at the same time as the evidence they organize remains pertinent and available for rethinking. The cumulative character of archaeological knowledge enables scalar perspectives across space and through time, casting what we know of one location in relief through comparison to others These revisions rethinking and scalar reflections encourage us to appreciate the complexity and diversity of past contexts as amply illustrated in contributions to this volume In short resuscitating echoes of Anthropocene Africa is painstaking work In this way and others archaeology is and should be slow science Ann B Stahl University of Victoria BC Canada
