Farewell to Visual Studies James Elkins, Gustav Frank, Sunil Manghani, 2015-10-28 Each of the five volumes in the Stone Art Theory Institutes series brings together a range of scholars who are not always directly familiar with one another's work. The outcome of each of these convergences is an extensive and unpredictable conversation on knotty and provocative issues about art. This fifth and final volume in the series focuses on the identity, nature and future of visual studies, discussing critical questions about its history, objects and methods. The contributors question the canon of literature of visual studies and the place of visual studies with relation to theories of vision, visuality, epistemology, politics and art history, giving voice to a variety of inter and transdisciplinary perspectives. Rather than dismissing visual studies as its provocative title might suggest, this volume aims to engage a critical discussion of the state of visual studies today, how it might move forward and what it might leave behind to evolve in productive ways. The contributors are Emmanuel Alloa, Nell Andrew, Linda Bezub, Rub Martin A. Berger, Hans Dam Christensen, Isabelle Decobecq, Bernhard J. Dotzler, Johanna Drucker, James Elkins, Michele Emmer, Yolaine Escande, Gustav Frank, Theodore Gracyk, Asbjørn Grønstad, Stephan Günzel, Charles W. Haxthausen, Miguel Hernández Navarro, Tom Holert, K. van Kesteren, Charlotte Klonk, Tirza True Latimer, Mark Linder, Sunil Manghani, Anna Notaro, Julia Orell, Mark Reinhardt, Vanessa R. Schwartz, Bernd Stiegler, Yvind Vignès, Sjoukje van der Meulen, Terri Weissman, Lisa Zaher and Marta Zarzycka. W.J.T. Mitchell's Image Theory Krešimir Purgar, 2016-11-25 W.J.T. Mitchell, one of the founders of visual studies, has been at the forefront of many disciplines such as iconology, art history and media studies. His concept of the pictorial turn is known worldwide for having set new philosophical paradigms in dealing with our vernacular visual world. This book will help both students and seasoned scholars to understand key terms in visual studies: pictorial turn, metapictures, literary iconology, image-text, biopictures or living pictures among many others, while systematically presenting the work of Mitchell as one of the discipline's founders and most prominent figures. As a special feature, the book includes three comprehensive, authoritative and theoretically relevant interviews with Mitchell that focus on different stages of development of visual studies and critical iconology. Shakespeare, Film Studies, and the Visual Cultures of Modernity A.

Guneratne, 2016-04-30 This book is the first in-depth cultural history of cinema's polyvalent and often contradictory appropriations of Shakespearean drama and performance traditions. The author argues that these adaptations have helped shape multiple aspects of film from cinematic style to genre and narrative construction. The Grove Encyclopedia of American Art Joan M. Marter, 2011 Arranged in alphabetical order, these 5 volumes encompass the history of the cultural development of America with over 2300 entries. Embodiment and Education Marjorie O'Loughlin, 2006-06-27 This book brings together some of the most important philosophical works on the body. These are then subjected to a critical analysis of what bodies do and have done to them in contemporary social life and particularly in education. The author acknowledges the importance of discursive bodies while focusing attention on the active experiencing body and its anchoring in the creaturely.

Thinking in these terms the author argues can better situate human beings in their environment thus emphasizing a kind of ecological notion of subjectivity in which place based existence is understood anew

Handbook of Research in the Social Foundations of Education Steven Tozer, Bernardo P. Gallegos, Annette Henry, Mary Bushnell Greiner, Paula Groves Price, 2011-07-05 This groundbreaking volume helps readers understand the history evolution and significance of this wide ranging often misunderstood and increasingly important field of study

Picture World Rachel Teukolsky, 2020-08-16 The modern media world came into being in the nineteenth century when machines were harnessed to produce texts and images in unprecedented numbers In the visual realm new industrial techniques generated a deluge of affordable pictorial items mass printed photographs posters cartoons and illustrations These alluring objects of the Victorian parlor were miniaturized spectacles that served as portals onto phantasmagoric versions of the world Although new kinds of pictures transformed everyday life these ephemeral items have received remarkably little scholarly attention Picture World shines a welcome new light onto these critically neglected yet fascinating visual objects They serve as entryways into the nineteenth century's key aesthetic concepts Each chapter pairs a new type of picture with a foundational keyword in Victorian aesthetics a familiar term reconceived through the lens of new media Character appears differently when considered with caricature in the new comics and cartoons appearing in the mass press in the 1830s likewise the book approaches realism through pictorial journalism illustration via illustrated Bibles sensation through carte de visite portrait photographs the picturesque by way of stereoscopic views and decadence through advertising posters Picture World studies the aesthetic effects of the nineteenth century's media revolution it uses the relics of a previous era's cultural life to interrogate the Victorian world's most deeply held values arriving at insights still relevant in our own media age

Visual Literacy James Elkins, 2009-09-11 What does it mean to be visually literate Does it mean different things in the arts and the sciences In the developed West or in developing nations This groundbreaking collection explores what impact the new concept of visual literacy has on art history

Visual Politics and North Korea David Shim, 2013-10-15 In the realm of international relations there are seemingly few states like North Korea Whether it is the country's human rights situation its precarious everyday life or its so called foreign policy of coercion and nuclear brinkmanship no matter what this pariah nation says and does it affects the state and stability of regional and global politics But what do we know about North Korea and how do we come to know it This book argues that visual imagery plays a decisive role in this operation By discussing two exemplary areas everyday photography and satellite imagery the book takes into account the role of images in the way that particular issues related to North Korea are understood in contemporary geopolitics Images work They do something by evoking a particular perspective of what is shown in them allowing only specific ways of seeing and knowing In this sense images are deeply political Individual methodological usages in the book can provide a procedural basis from which to start or rethink further studies on visibility both in IR and beyond It also opens an innovative path for future studies on East Asia making the book attractive to a range of specialists and thus holding an appeal beyond the boundaries of a single discipline

Schools and Screens Victoria Cain, 2024-02-06 Why screens in schools from film screenings to instructional television to personal computers did not bring about the educational revolution promised by reformers Long before Chromebook giveaways and remote learning screen media technologies were enthusiastically promoted by American education reformers Again and again as schools deployed film screenings television programs and computer games screen based learning was touted as a cure for all educational ills But the transformation promised by advocates for screens in schools never happened In this book Victoria Cain chronicles important episodes in the history of educational technology as reformers technocrats public television producers and computer scientists tried to harness the power of screen based media to shape successive generations of students Cain describes how beginning in the 1930s champions of educational technology saw screens in schools as essential tools for training citizens and presented films to that end Among the films screened for educational purposes was the notoriously racist Birth of a Nation In the 1950s and 1960s both technocrats and leftist educators turned to screens to prepare young Americans for Cold War citizenship and from the 1970s through the 1990s as commercial television and personal computers arrived in classrooms screens in schools represented an increasingly privatized vision of schooling and civic engagement Cain argues that the story of screens in schools is not simply about efforts to develop the right technological tools rather it reflects ongoing tensions over citizenship racial politics private funding and distrust of teachers Ultimately she shows that the technologies that reformers had envisioned as improving education and training students in civic participation in fact deepened educational inequities

Seen and Unseen: Visual Cultures of Imperialism, 2017-10-02 Seen and Unseen teases out and explores how visual mediums construct visual cultures that often create limited perspectives of certain issues and groups This volume focuses in particular on the representation of Islam and Muslims It deals with fixed and stereotypical visual representations and explores alternative and challenging visual representations that reconstruct and dismantle existing belief systems It approaches the topic from a vantage point of diverse multiple perspectives Covering issues from Brunei Iran Egypt and England and cyberspace the essays in this volume examine the visual cultures of how Islam and Muslims are understood misunderstood misrepresented or even embraced visually Scholars in this volume draw on historical paintings books and their covers photography and news to demonstrate the diversity and sometimes contradictory visual cultures that construct and adhere meaning to how Islam and Muslim people are seen Contributors Hoda Afshar Jared Ahmed Syed Farid Alatas Sanaz Fotouhi Christiane Gruber Layla Hendow Raihana M M Bruno Starrs and Esmaeil Zeiny

An Analysis of John Berger's Ways of Seeing Emmanouil Kalkanis, 2018-02-21 Ways of Seeing is a key art historical work that continues to provoke widespread debate It is comprised of seven different essays three of which are pictorial and the other containing texts and images Berger first examines the relationship between seeing and knowing discussing how our assumptions affect how we see a painting He moves on to consider the role of women in artwork particularly regarding the female nude The third essay deals with oil painting looking at the relationship between subjects and ownership Finally Berger addresses the idea of ownership in a consumerist society discussing the power of imagery in advertising with particular regards to photography

The Geometry of Christian Contemplation David Albertson, 2025-05-16 The writings of ancient and medieval Christian mystics were rediscovered in the twentieth century and today they are read more widely than ever before But do modern assumptions about religious experience influence how we hear those premodern voices Do we do them justice by thinking of mysticism as interior and ineffable Or can mystical experience intersect with the natural environment and indeed the cosmos which science calculates with precise quantities David Albertson's The Geometry of Christian Contemplation Measure without Measure suggests a fresh approach to the history of mystical theology that is oriented toward exteriority more than interiority and toward the measurable world outside more than the invisible world within The ancient Greek philosopher Plotinus had taught contemplatives to close their eyes and withdraw into the soul Most Christians followed his directions but others dissented In three critical episodes an alternative model of Christian contemplation began to emerge from Dionysius the Areopagite to the Byzantine monks John of Damascus and Theodore the Studite to eccentric humanists in medieval Paris Together these episodes add up to a very different theological aesthetics one that can enliven the modern study of mysticism and correct some of its imbalances For in the centuries before the scientific revolution and the secularization of nature Christians still saw God in the exterior world not only the interior soul God was not an ineffable and formless Absolute immeasurable as the soul but an infinite Measure who leaves behind geometrical traces in the figures of the world The God who became a human body in the Incarnation not only entered time and matter but also spatial extension and with it the conditions of measure points lines curves shapes planes dimensions and magnitudes Today the wisdom of this counter tradition can strengthen the study of mysticism not only by supplementing our contemporary fascination with negative theology by redefining what it means to name God positively but by suggesting a new connection between Christian mysticism and the hyper measured hyper technologized world that surrounds us A
