Memories of the Classical Underworld in Irish and Caribbean Literature Madeleine Scherer, 2021-09-20 Classical Memories is an intervention into the field of adaptation studies taking the example of classical reception to show that adaptation is a process that can be driven by and produce intertextual memories I see classical memories as a memory driven type of adaptation that draws on and reproduces schematic and otherwise de contextualised conceptions of antiquity and its cultural exports in broadly speaking the twentieth and twenty first centuries These memory driven adaptations differ often in significant ways from more traditional adaptations that seek to either continue or deconstruct a long running tradition that can be traced back to antiquity as well as its canonical points of reception in later ages When investigating such a popular and widespread set of narratives characters and images like those that remain of Graeco Roman antiquity terms like adaptation and reception could and should be nuanced further to allow us to understand the complex interactions between modern works and classical antiquity in more detail particularly when it pertains to postcolonial or post digital classical reception In Classical Memories I propose that understanding certain types of adaptations as intertextual memories allows us to do just that Communities in Contemporary Anglophone Caribbean Short Stories Lucy Evans,2014 This book explores representations of community in Anglophone Caribbean short story collections and cycles of the late twentieth and early twenty first century

Caliban's Voice Bill Ashcroft, 2009-01-21 In Shakespeare s Tempest Caliban says to Miranda and Prospero you taught me language and my profit on t Is I know how to curse With this statement he gives voice to an issue that lies at the centre of post colonial studies Can Caliban own Prospero s language Can he use it to do more than curse Caliban's Voice examines the ways in which post colonial literatures have transformed English to redefine what we understand to be English Literature It investigates the importance of language learning in the imperial mission the function of language in ideas of race and place the link between language and identity the move from orature to literature and the significance of translation By demonstrating the dialogue that occurs between writers and readers in literature Bill Ashcroft argues that cultural identity is not locked up in language but that language even a dominant colonial language can be transformed to convey the realities of many different cultures Using the figure of Caliban Ashcroft weaves a consistent and resonant thread through his discussion of the post colonial experience of life in the English language and the power of its transformation into new and creative forms

Memory and Myth Fiona Darroch, 2009 This book investigates the problematical historical location of the term religion and examines how this location has affected the analytical reading of postcolonial fiction and poetry The adoption of the term religion outside of a Western Enlightenment and Christian context should therefore be treated with caution Within postcolonial literary criticism there has been either a silencing of the category as a result of this caution or an uncritical and essentializing adoption of the term religion It is argued in the present study that a vital aspect of how writers articulate their histories of colonial contact migration slavery and the re forging of identities in the wake of these histories is illuminated by the classificatory term religion Aspects of postcolonial theory and Religious Studies theory are combined to provide fresh insights into the literature thereby expanding the field of postcolonial literary criticism The way in which writers remember history through writing is central to the way in which religion is theorized and articulated the act of remembrance can be persuasively interpreted in terms of religion The title Memory and Myth therefore refers to both the syncretic mythology of

Guyana and the key themes in a new critical understanding of religion Particular attention is devoted to Wilson Harris s novel Jonestown alongside theoretical and historical material on the actual Jonestown tragedy to the mesmerizing effect of the Anancy tales on contemporary writers particularly the poet John Agard and to the work of the Indo Guyanese writer David Dabydeen and his elusive character Manu
