Four Ages of Understanding John Deely, 2020-07-20 This book redraws the intellectual map and sets the agenda in philosophy for the next fifty or so years By making the theory of signs the dominant theme in Four Ages of Understanding John Deely has produced a history of philosophy that is innovative original and complete The first full scale demonstration of the centrality of the theory of signs to the history of philosophy Four Ages of Understanding provides a new vantage point from which to review and reinterpret the development of intellectual culture at the threshold of globalization Deely examines the whole movement of past developments in the history of philosophy in relation to the emergence of contemporary semiotics as the defining moment of Postmodernism Beginning traditionally with the Pre Socratic thinkers of early Greece Deely gives an account of the development of the notion of signs and of the general philosophical problems and themes which give that notion a context through four ages Ancient philosophy covering initial Greek thought the Latin age philosophy in European civilization from Augustine in the 4th century to Poincaré in the 17th the Modern period beginning with Descartes and Locke and the Postmodern period beginning with Charles Sanders Peirce and continuing to the present Reading the complete history of philosophy in light of the theory of the sign allows Deely to address the work of thinkers never before included in a general history and in particular to overcome the gap between Ockham and Descartes which has characterized the standard treatments heretofore One of the essential features of the book is the way in which it shows how the theme of signs opens a perspective for seeing the Latin Age from its beginning with Augustine to the work of Poincaré as an indigenous development and organic unity under which all the standard themes of ontology and epistemology find a new resolution and place A magisterial general history of philosophy Deely's book provides both a strong background to semiotics and a theoretical unity between philosophy's history and its immediate future With Four Ages of Understanding Deely sets a new agenda for philosophy as a discipline entering the 21st century

How We Blame Bana Bashour,2025-07-08 This book presents a naturalistic account of moral responsibility that is neutral on the metaphysics of free will It engages with empirical literature in experimental philosophy and psychology and draws on real life case studies to illuminate the author s theory of moral responsibility The author argues that agency requires an understanding of moral responsibility attributions which requires that one understands one s intentional states and those of others Further she argues that a justified attribution of moral responsibility involves justified attributions of intentional states and justified perceptions of norm violations This claim is novel because when moral responsibility is indexed to a particular onlooker the discussion becomes one about whether a blamer is justified in attributing moral responsibility to the blamed Another distinctive feature of the author s account is that it makes room for cultural variability in our justifications of moral responsibility those in different cultures may have different norms or expectations of one another The first part of the book argues for a theoretical account of agency and moral responsibility while making distinctions between those and one s theory of punishment While justified attributions are interpersonal theories of punishment are institutional and societal in nature The second part of the book goes into the literature from empirical psychology and experimental philosophy on the nature of moral responsibility How We Blame will appeal to philosophers and psychologists interested in the issue of moral responsibility
