She Speaks:

Your Voice Speaks Volumes Jane Setter, 2019-10-24 Why do we speak the way we do and what do our voices tell others about us What is the truth behind the myths that surround how we speak Jane Setter explores these and other fascinating questions in this engaging introduction to the power and the science of the voice The book first takes us on a tour of the sounds in our language and how we produce them as well as how and why those sounds vary in different varieties of English The origins of our vast range of accents are explained along with the prejudices associated with them why do we feel such loyalty to our own accent and what's behind our attitudes to others We learn that much of what we believe about how we speak may not be true is it really the case for instance that only young people use uptalk or that only women use vocal fry Our voices can also be used as criminal evidence and to help us wear different social and professional hats Throughout the book Professor Setter draws on examples from the media and from her own professional and personal experience from her work on the provenance of the terrorist Jihadi John to why the Rolling Stones sounded American Adding English

Development and Vulnerability in Close Relationships Gil G. Noam, Kurt W. Fischer, 2013-06-17 How do people develop in their important relationships How do two people come together to form a new close relationship How do relationships affect or determine who we are and who we become These questions should be central to the study of mind and development but most researchers neglect relationships and focus instead on analyses of individuals as if people were basically alone experiencing occasional fleeting moments with other people Research based on this individualist assumption has dominated the behavioral and clinical sciences but there are other voices and they are growing In this book many of the scholars who are moving relationships and attachments back to the center of human development outline their central concepts findings and perspectives People are fundamentally social and relationships are part of the fabric of being human forming an essential foundation that molds each person's mind and action A mind does not reside in one person but in relationships and communities composed of many people's interconnected minds which mutually support and define each other. From the start and throughout life, each person develops strengths and vulnerabilities in important relationships in communities and cultures. Those relationships are so central to each person's activity and experience that without them, no scientific explanation can even begin to analyze mind and action. There is no mind without other people. There is no psychological vulnerability that does not involve others. The contributors to this book aim to establish a firm foundation for the role of relationships in human activity and health and to promote strong research by bringing together in one place most of the best research and theory on development and relationships. Their goal is to stimulate a more radical inclusion of relationships in mind, an ecological focus on the ways that relationships constitute action, feeling, and thought.

The Oxford Handbook of Assertion Sanford Goldberg, 2020. The Oxford Handbook of Assertion explores philosophical themes pertaining to the speech act of assertion: the nature of assertion; assertion's place among the speech acts; empirical issues in theories of assertion; assertion's role in semantics and metasemantics; the place of assertion in the epistemology of testimony; and the social and ethical dimensions of assertion.

Spirits in Culture, History and Mind Jeannette Mageo, Alan Howard, 2012-12-06. Spirits in Culture, History and Mind reintegrates spirits into comparative theories of religion which have tended to focus on institutionalized forms of belief associated with gods. It brings an historical perspective to culturally patterned experiences with spirits and examines spirits as a locus of tension between traditional and foreign values. Taking as a point of departure shifting local views of self, nine case studies drawn from Pacific societies analyze religious phenomena at the intersection of social, psychological, and historical processes. The varied approaches taken in these case studies provide a richness of perspective, with each lens illuminating different aspects of spirit-related experience. All, however, bring a sense of historical process to bear on psychological and symbolic approaches to religion, shedding new light on the ways spirits relate to other cultural phenomena.

Down Salem Way Meredith Allard, 2021-03-13. How would you deal with the madness of the Salem witch hunts? Though they are virtually strangers when they marry, the love between James and Elizabeth grows quickly into a passion that will transcend time. But something evil lurks down Salem way. Soon many in Salem town and village are accused of practicing witchcraft and sending their shapes to harm others. Despite the madness surrounding them, James and Elizabeth are determined to continue the peaceful, loving life they have created together. Will their love for one another carry them through the most difficult challenge of all?

Philosophy and Autobiography Christopher Hamilton, 2021-11-13

This book taking its point of departure from Stanley Cavell's claim that philosophy and autobiography are dimensions of each other aims to explore some of the relations between these forms of reflection first by seeking to develop an outline of a philosophy of autobiography and then by exploring the issue from the side of five autobiographical works Christopher Hamilton argues in the volume that there are good reasons for thinking that philosophical texts can be considered autobiographical and then turns to discuss the autobiographies of Walter Benjamin Peter Weiss Jean Paul Sartre George Orwell Edmund Gosse and Albert Camus In discussing these works Hamilton explores how they put into question certain received understandings of what philosophical texts suppose themselves to be doing and also how they themselves constitute philosophical explorations of certain key issues e.g. the self death religious and ethical consciousness sensuality the body Throughout there is an exploration of the ways in which autobiographies help us in thinking about self knowledge and knowledge of others A final chapter raises some issues concerning the fact that the five autobiographies discussed here are all texts dealing with childhood
