Nesting Linda L. Bielowski,Linda L. Bielowski Ph. D.,2005-07 Nesting A Woman's Voice from the Wilderness is the collection of poems that grew from the seed of struggle and pilgrimage into the solitude of the inner dispositions of the soul It ponders and praises and celebrates the process of becoming still to hear the call in every heart to see with discerning eyes to trust the indwelling comforter It speaks and screams and echoes a pervasive persistent longing an unrelenting ache a pacing on cold floorboards missing someone someplace something The works within this volume reflect the crystalline pieces of self scattered and retrieved from life's passages as a result of moving freely through memories and musings present to past past to present to open to the sacred in the simple dailiness of living It warns us not to miss the moment not to squander our souls on the passing baubles and trinkets of life when it is life itself that life must be about In a recondite sense Nesting is a poetic guidebook for walking into the tomb armed with the spiritual tools of the day for heeding the call out of our groping daily selves and into the cloister of the heart for emerging renewed able to recognize the minute by minute miracles in the mundane Dr Bielowski offers it to her readers to her fellow seekers to her wayfaring strangers as warm lining for their own nesting as a rescue flare for their own journeying on the way to the fullness of life Godspeed

concept of the sublime within a context of spiralling technologies and nuclear force that calls into question the long standing American sacralization of power Throughout American Sublime Wilson engages in an original theoretical inquiry into the sublime as term topic complex and controversial idea in literary and critical history Furthermore he undertakes his historical study from an avowedly postmodern perspective one that draws on and extends the work of Jameson Lyotard Foucault Lentricchia Harold Bloom and others
