demonstrates the attractive potential of recent developments in control for resolving such issues as flight performance self protection and extended life structures. Importantly the text deals with a number of practically significant considerations: tuning complexity of design, real time capability, evaluation of worst case performance, robustness in harsh environments and extensibility when development or adaptation is required. Coverage of such issues helps to draw the advanced concepts arising from academic research back towards the technological concerns of industry. Initial coverage of basic definitions and ideas and a literature review gives way to a treatment of electrical flight control system failures: oscillatory failure, runaway and jamming. Advanced fault detection and diagnosis for linear and linear parameter varying systems are described. Lastly recovery strategies appropriate to remaining actuator/sensor communications resources are developed. The authors exploit experience gained in research collaboration with academic and major industrial partners to validate advanced fault diagnosis and fault tolerant control techniques with realistic benchmarks or real world aeronautical and space systems. Consequently the results presented in Fault Diagnosis and Fault Tolerant Control and Guidance for Aerospace will be of interest in both academic and aerospace industrial milieux.

Robotic Manipulators and Vehicles Gerasimos Rigatos, Krishna Busawon, 2018-05-24. This monograph addresses problems of nonlinear control estimation and filtering for robotic manipulators: multi degree of freedom rigid link robots, flexible link robots, underactuated, redundant and cooperating manipulators and closed chain robotic mechanisms and nonlinear control estimation and filtering for autonomous robotic vehicles operating on the ground, in the air and on and under water independently and in cooperating groups. The book is a thorough treatment of the entire range of applications of robotic manipulators and autonomous vehicles. The nonlinear control and estimation methods it develops can be used generically, being suitable for a wide range of robotic systems. Such methods can improve robustness, precision and fault tolerance in robotic manipulators and vehicles at the same time as enabling the reliable functioning of these systems under variable conditions, model uncertainty and external perturbations.

Aerospace vehicles are by their very nature a crucial environment for safety critical systems. By virtue of an effective safety control system the aerospace vehicle can maintain high performance despite the risk of component malfunction and multiple disturbances, thereby enhancing aircraft safety and the probability of success for a mission. Autonomous Safety Control of Flight Vehicles presents a systematic methodology for improving the safety of aerospace vehicles in the face of the following occurrences: a loss of control, effectiveness of actuators and control surface impairments, the disturbance of observer based control against multiple disturbances, actuator faults and model uncertainties in hypersonic gliding vehicles and faults arising from actuator faults and sensor faults. Several fundamental issues related to safety are explicitly analyzed according to aerospace engineering system characteristics while focusing on these safety issues the safety control design problems of aircraft are studied and elaborated on in detail using systematic design methods The research results illustrate the superiority of the safety control approaches put forward The expected reader group for this book includes undergraduate and graduate students but also industry practitioners and researchers About the Authors Xiang Yu is a Professor with the School of Automation Science and Electrical Engineering Beihang University Beijing China His research interests include safety control of aerospace engineering systems guidance navigation and control of unmanned aerial vehicles Lei Guo appointed as Chang Jiang Scholar Chair Professor is a Professor with the School of Automation Science and Electrical Engineering Beihang University Beijing China His research interests include anti disturbance control and filtering stochastic control and fault detection with their applications to aerospace systems Youmin Zhang is a Professor in the Department of Mechanical Industrial and Aerospace Engineering Concordia University Montreal Qu bec Canada His research interests include fault diagnosis and fault tolerant control and cooperative guidance navigation and control GNC of unmanned aerial space ground surface vehicles Jin Jiang is a Professor in the Department of Electrical Computer Engineering Western University London Ontario Canada His research interests include fault tolerant control of safety critical systems advanced control of power plants containing non traditional energy resources and instrumentation and control for nuclear power plants
