Away from Her Alice Munro, 2008-11-26 From Nobel Prize winning author Alice Munro a true master of the form Salman Rushdie comes the brilliant short story that inspired the major motion picture starring Julie Christie and Gordon Pinsent featuring a Preface from Sarah Polley I've always loved Alice Munro's writing but this story punctured something I read it stunned and let it sit there It seemed to enter like a bullet So concise and unsentimental nothing to cushion the blow of its impact When I was finished I couldn't stop weeping Sarah Polley from the Preface Alice Munro has long been heralded for her penetrating lyrical prose and in The Bear Came Over the Mountain the basis for Sarah Polley's film Away from Her her prodigious talents are once again on display As she follows Grant a retired professor whose wife Fiona begins gradually to drift away from him we slowly see how a lifetime of intimate details can create a marriage and how mysterious the bonds of love really are

Children's Palliative Care in Africa Justin Amery, 2009 Children's palliative care has developed rapidly as a discipline as health care professionals recognise that the principles of adult palliative care may not always be applicable to children at the end of life The unique needs of dying children are particularly evident across Africa where the scale of the problem is overwhelming and the figures so enormous that they are barely comprehensible over 400 000 children in Africa died from AIDS in 2003 and out of the 166 000 children a year diagnosed with cancer 84% of these are in the developing world Despite the enormous need provision of children's palliative care in Africa is almost non-existent with very few health workers trained and confident to provide care for dying children The challenges of providing palliative care in this setting are different to those in more developed countries contending with the shortage of physical and human resources in addition to the vast scope of the care needed Written by a group with wide experience of caring for dying children in Africa this book provides practical realistic guidance on improving access to and delivery of palliative care in this demanding setting It looks at the themes common to palliative care including communication assessment symptom management psychosocial issues ethical dilemmas end of life care and tips for the professional on compassion and conservation of energy but always retains the focus on the particular needs of the health care professional in Africa Whilst containing some theory the emphasis is on practical action throughout It will provide health care professionals working in Africa and other resource poor settings with the confidence knowledge and capacity to improve care for the terminally ill child in constrained and demanding environments

Detheridge, Mike Detheridge, 2013-10-11 This second edition of an important and essentially practical book is now fully updated and revised to take into account the significant developments that have been made in using symbols to support literacy. It is full of ideas and examples of the ways in which access to literacy can be enhanced through the use of symbols based on the experience of the authors and many practitioners. Topics covered include how symbols are being used in schools, colleges and day care centers; ways in which symbols can help to enhance learning and independence; lots of new examples of good practice from practitioners; the results of the Rebus Symbol development project; how symbols fit in with the National Literacy Strategy; and how symbols can be used to make information more accessible. Teachers in mainstream and special schools, teaching assistants, day care workers and parents should find this book helps them understand how to use symbols to improve literacy and aid communication.

A Dictionary of Iowa Place-Names Tom Savage, 2007-08 Lourdes and Churchtown Woden and Clio Emerson and Sigourney Tripoli and Waterloo Prairie City and Prairieburg Tama and Swedesburg What Cheer and Coin Iowa's place names reflect the religions, myths, cultures, families, heroes, whimsies and misspellings of the Hawkeye State's inhabitants. Tom Savage spent four years corresponding with librarians, city and county officials and local historians, reading newspaper archives and exploring local websites in an effort to find out why these communities received their particular names when they were established and when they were incorporated. Savage includes information on the place names of all 1,188 incorporated and unincorporated communities in Iowa that meet at least two of the following qualifications: twenty-five or more residents; a retail business; an annual celebration or festival; a school, church or cemetery; a building on the National Register of Historic Places; a zip-coded post office; or an association with a public recreation site. If a town's name has changed over the years, he provides information about each name; if a name's provenance is unclear, he provides possible explanations. He also includes information about the state's name and about each of its ninety-nine counties, as well as a list of ghost towns. The entries range from the counties of Adair to Wright and from the towns of Abingdon to Zwingle from Iowa's oldest town, Dubuque, starting as a mining camp in the 1780s and incorporated in 1841 to its newest, Maharishi Vedic City, incorporated in 2001. The imaginations and experiences of its citizens played a role in the naming of Iowa's communities, as did the hopes of the huge influx of immigrants who settled the state in the 1800s. Tom Savage's dictionary of place names provides an appealing genealogical and historical background to today's map of Iowa. It is one of the beauties of Iowa that travel across the state brings a person into contact with so many wonderful names, some of which a traveler may understand immediately but others may require a bit of investigation. Like the poet Stephen Vincent Benét, we have fallen in love with American names. They are part of our soul, be they family names, town names or artifact names. We identify with them and are identified with them, and we cannot live without them. This book will help us learn more about them and integrate them into our beings.
