Readers Judgement Stand And Effect:

Playbooks and their Readers in Early Modern England Hannah August, 2022-04-24 This book is the first comprehensive examination of commercial drama as a reading genre in early modern England Taking as its focus pre Restoration printed drama s most common format the single play quarto playbook it interrogates what the form and content of these playbooks can tell us about who their earliest readers were why they might have wanted to read contemporary commercial drama and how they responded to the printed versions of plays that had initially been performed in the playhouses of early modern London Focusing on professional plays printed in quarto between 1584 and 1660 the book juxtaposes the implications of material and paratextual evidence with analysis of historical traces of playreading in extant playbooks and manuscript commonplace books In doing so it presents more detailed and nuanced conclusions than have previously been enabled by studies focused on works by one author or on a single type of evidence

Reading in the Presence of Christ: A Study of Dietrich Bonhoeffer's Bibliology and Exegesis Joel Banman, 2021-02-11 Bonhoeffer s writings include a significant amount of biblical interpretation but his potential contributions in the fields of biblical studies and theological exegesis of Scripture have not been sufficiently explored This study reassesses some of his key exegetical writings in light of his theology of revelation and bibliology unfolding the ways in which his reading of the Bible is determined by his theology of Scripture Through this analysis Joel Banman demonstrates that the uniting factor of Bonhoeffer s biblical interpretation is not methodological but bibliological he reads Scripture as the living word of the present Christ

What

Can We Really Know? David R. Andersen, Angus J.L. Menuge, 2023-06-13 Today it's not uncommon to get the impression that our claims to know are either doomed before they begin or that they have a status that approaches certainty. The pendulum seems to swing from one end to the other with our educational institutions too often perpetuating both depending on the person being asked. Yet the question of how and if our claims to know are really justified remains central. Is knowledge a purely social construct without any objective basis as many claim? Or if we do have some basis to believe some of our claims are we justified in holding those claims with an attitude of certainty as others in today's environment seem to imply? And what role do our quick judgments play in those claims? From the tenor of our public debates one could easily be left with the suspicion that either we can't know anything or that whatever the present state of knowledge is shouldn't be questioned. What Can We Really Know? The Strengths and Limits of Human Understanding aims to bring some balance to the topic and argues that while we do have reason to believe that a great many of our claims are justified it's also true that much of what passes for knowledge is a social product and therefore vulnerable to future revision. Exploring how knowledge can be understood how far science can take us and what its limitations might be and the status of some of the most recent arguments for God's existence it will be suggested that a healthy dose of humility should be reincorporated in our public and private debates.

Film Theory Philip Simpson, Andrew Utterson, Karen J. Shepherdson, 2004 This major new collection identifies the critical and theoretical concepts which have been most significant in the study of film and presents a historical and intellectual context for the material examined.

The Modern Reader's Bible Richard Green Moulton, 1907 "The" Bible for Home Reading: Containing selections from the wisdom literature, the prophets, and the Psalter together with extracts from the Apocrypha. 1907 Claude Goldsmid Montefiore, 1907 Weibo News Package: a Systemic Functional Perspective on the Text-Reader Relationship Juan He, 2025-01-07 This book offers an academic dialogue between news values construction and readers' evaluative response in Weibo news package from the interpersonal perspective. The study focuses on the under-researched field of news reception, i.e. how the media reader relationship can be influenced by readers' feedback. By combining multimodal discourse analysis and corpus methods this book aims to address the following three research questions regarding the text reader relationship in Weibo news package: 1. what are the gains and losses in the transfer of news values constructed across platforms and news media? 2. how are Chinese language and emoji collaborated to realize attitudinal meanings and advance readers' positions in news comments? 3. how does readers' response overlap or mismatch with particular news value in a story across news text reader relations, reader-reader relations and extra-text reader relations? The book has social theoretical and pedagogical implications for the changing landscape of Chinese news discourse and audience studies. Socially the findings of news and comments analysis show that news value decisions can be negotiated due to readers' active engagement via the social media commenting function. Theoretically a responsive model of evaluative readings has been built for a better understanding of social media multimodal comments through the lens of reading.

Re-Reading Education

Policies, 2009-01-01 This book collects studies with a critical education policy orientation and presents itself as a handbook of matters of public concern The term critical does not refer to the adoption of a particular theoretical framework or methodology but rather it refers to a very specific ethos or way of relating to the present and the belief that the future should not be the repetition of the past This implies a concern about what is happening in our societies today and what could or should be happening in the future As a consequence the contributors to the book rely on a general notion of public policy that takes on board processes practices and discourses at a variety of levels in diverse governmental and non governmental contexts and considers the relation of policy to power to politics and to social regulation Following the detailed introduction that aims at picturing the landscape of studies with a critical education policy orientation the book presents re readings of six policy challenges globalization knowledge society lifelong learning equality democracy social inclusion accountability control efficiency and teacher professionalism It seeks to contextualise these in relation to issues of current global concern at the start of the 21st century Despite the diversity of approaches this collection of critical education policy studies shares a concern with what could be called the public and its education and represents a snapshot of education policy research at a particular time

Toward a Postcolonial

Reading of the Epistle of James Ingeborg Mongstad-Kvammen, 2013-06-15 Toward a Postcolonial Reading of the Epistle of James offers an interpretation of Jas 2 1 13 putting the text in the midst of the Roman imperial system of rank This study shows that the conflict of the text has more to do with differences of rank than poverty and wealth The main problem is that the Christian assemblies are acting according to Roman cultural etiquette instead of their Jewish Christian heritage when a Roman equestrian and a beggar visit the assembly The members of the assemblies are accused of having become too Roman

From a postcolonial perspective this is a typical case of hybrid identities. Additional key concepts from postcolonialism such as diaspora, othering, naming of oppressors and binarisms such as coloniser/colonised, centre/margin, honour/shame and power/powerless are highlighted throughout the study.
