Losing Battles Eudora Welty, 1990-08-11 Three generations of Granny Vaughn's descendants gather at her Mississippi home to celebrate her 90th birthday Possessed of the true storyteller's gift the members of this clan cannot resist the temptation to swap tales

The Late Novels of Eudora Welty Jan Nordby Gretlund, Karl-Heinz Westarp, 1998 The Late Novels of Eudora Welty offers readings of two of the works considered to be Welty's most exciting both in innovative technique and postmodern existential statement Fourteen new essays by internationally distinguished critics of Southern literature provide focused appraisals of Welty's last two novels Losing Battles 1970 a provocative experiment in narration and Pulitzer Prize winning The Optimist's Daughter 1972 a profound comment on our time Welty Albert J. The Family Saga in the South: Generations and

Destinies Robert O. Stephens,1995 Writing the South Richard Gray,Richard J. Gray,1997 In this major reconsideration of a regional consciousness Richard Gray explores how generations of southerners have been engaged in writing the South in reinventing their place even as they describe it Humane and learned informative and analytical WRITING THE SOUTH is a most impressive addition to cultural inquiry THE LISTENER 12 photos One Writer's Imagination Suzanne Marrs,2002-09-01 In One Writer's Imagination Suzanne Marrs draws upon nearly twenty years of conversations interviews and friendship with Eudora Welty to discuss the intersections between biography and art in the Pulitzer Prize winner's work Through an engaging chronological and comprehensive reading of the Welty canon Marrs describes the ways Welty's creative process transformed and transfigured fact to serve the purposes of fiction She points to the sparks that lit Welty's imagination an imagination that thrived on polarities in her personal life and in society at large Marrs offers new evidence of the role Welty's mother circle of friends and community played in her development as a writer and analyzes the manner in which her most heartfelt relationships including her romance with John Robinson inform her work She charts the profound and often subtle ways Welty's fiction responded to the crucial historical episodes of her time notably the Great Depression World War II and the civil rights movement and the writer's personal reactions to war racism poverty and the political issues of her day In doing so Marrs proves Welty to be a much more political artist than has been conventionally thought Scrutinizing drafts of Welty's work Marrs reveals an evolving pattern of revision increasingly significant to the author's thematic concerns and precision of style Welty's achievement Marrs explains confirms theories of creativity even as it transcends them remaining in its origins somewhat mysterious Marrs's relationship to Eudora Welty as a friend scholar and archivist with access to private papers and restricted correspondence makes her a unique authority on Welty's forty year career The eclectic approach of her study speaks to the exhilarating power of imagination Welty so thoroughly enjoyed in the act of writing The Postsouthern Sense of Place in Contemporary Fiction Martyn Bone,2014-01-13 For generations southern novelists and critics have grappled with a concept that is widely seen as a trademark of their literature a strong attachment to geography or a sense of place In the 1930s the Agrarians accorded special meaning to rural life particularly the farm in their definitions of southern identity For them the South seemed an organic and rooted region in contrast to the North where real estate development and urban sprawl evoked a faceless raw capitalism By the end of the twentieth century however economic and social forces had converged to create a modernized South How have writers responded to this phenomenon Is there still a sense of place in the South or perhaps a distinctly postsouthern sense of place Martyn Bone innovatively draws upon postmodern thinking to consider the various perspectives that southern writers have brought to the concept of place and to look at its fate in a national and global context He begins with a revisionist assessment of the Agrarians who failed in their attempts to turn their proprietary ideal of the small farm into actual policy but whose broader rural aesthetic lived on in the work of neo Agrarian writers including William Faulkner and Eudora Welty By the 1950s adherence to this aesthetic was causing southern writers and critics to lose sight of the social reality of a changing South Bone turns to more recent works that do respond to the impact of capitalist spatial development on the South and on the nation generally including that self declared international city Atlanta Close readings of novels by Robert Penn Warren Walker Percy Richard Ford Anne Rivers Siddons Tom Wolfe and Toni Cade Bambara illuminate evolving ideas about capital land labor and class while introducing southern literary studies into wider debates around social cultural and literary geography Bone concludes his remarkably rich book by considering works of Harry Crews and Barbara Kingsolver that suggest the southern sense of place may be not only post Agrarian or postsouthern but also transnational
