Raven and Whale Scott Page,2011 A retelling of how Raven came to know more about the creatures that he created by learning from Whale Qanemcit Amllertut/Many Stories to Tell Ann Fienup-Riordan,Alice Rearden,2017-11-15 This bilingual collection shares new translations of old stories recorded over the last four decades through interviews with Yup ik elders from throughout southwest Alaska Some are true qulirat traditional tales while others are recent Some are well known like the adventures of the wily Raven while others are rarely told All are part of a great narrative tradition shared and treasured by Yup ik people into the present day This is the first region wide collection of traditional Yup ik tales and stories from Southwest Alaska The elders and translators who contributed to this collection embrace the great irony of oral traditions that the best way to keep these stories is to give them away By retelling these stories they hope to create a future in which the Yup ik view of the world will be both recognized and valued Natural Science and Indigenous Knowledge

Edward A. Johnson,Susan M. Arlidge,2024-04-18 How do we combine the areas of intersection between science and indigenous knowledge but without losing the totality of both This book s objective is to consider how Indigenous populations have lived and managed the landscape Specifically how their footprint was a result of the combination of their empirical knowledge and their culture The chapters are divided into four groups The first deals with reintegrating cultures and natural landscapes and the role of kinship and oral tradition The second group approaches the landscape as a living university of learning and managing discussing the ethnobotany of how to grow more responsibly and assess and project the harvest The third group deals with the managing of fire in an anthropogenic plant community and how to integrate indigenous agriculture in hydrology and dry regions The fourth group consists of studies of how science and indigenous knowledge can be taught in schools using land based studies The Land of the Maple Leaf B. University of Pennsylvania. University Museum,1928 Re-activating Indigenous Knowledge from Oral History Asta Mønsted,2025-09-11 This book focuses on Greenlandic oral history and how to better understand people their cultural remains and their landscape through their own stories It offers a way to consult Inuit oral history that opens up a perspective on houses and landscapes that may otherwise be invisible to the barren eye Working with and re activating Indigenous knowledge of Greenland the study draws on more than two thousand stories collected between 1735 and 1981 preserved and later enrolled in an online and searchable database The author unearths the concepts woven into Greenlandic Inuit s homes settlements and landscapes These re discovered insights challenge the archaeological interpretation transcending the tangible to illuminate the unseen The narratives contribute to safeguarding invaluable Indigenous knowledge and perhaps also to the revival of cultural practices customs and traditions The book demonstrates how oral history is more than merely fantastical myths and legends it is valuable knowledge for scholars and communities It will be of particular interest for scholars of Indigenous studies anthropology archaeology and history Tsimshian Mythology Franz Boas,1916
