Impersonations Harshita Mruthinti Kamath, 2019-06-04 Learn more at www.lumino.so Impersonations: The Artifice of Brahmin Masculinity in South Indian Dance centers on an insular community of Smarta Brahmin men from the Kuchipudi village in Telugu-speaking South India who are required to don stri vesam (woman's guise) and impersonate female characters from Hindu religious narratives. Impersonation is not simply a gender performance circumscribed to the Kuchipudi stage but a practice of power that enables the construction of hegemonic Brahmin masculinity in everyday village life. However, the power of the Brahmin male body in stri vesam is highly contingent, particularly on account of the expansion of Kuchipudi in the latter half of the twentieth century from a localized village performance to a transnational Indian dance form. This book analyzes the practice of impersonation across a series of boundaries: village to urban, Brahmin to non-Brahmin, hegemonic to non-normative, to explore the artifice of Brahmin masculinity in contemporary South Indian dance.

Reliability, Yield, and Stress Burn-In Way Kuo, Wei-Ting Kary Chien, Taeho Kim, 2013-11-27 The international market is very competitive for high-tech manufacturers today. Achieving competitive quality and reliability for products requires leadership from the top, good management practices, effective and efficient operation and maintenance systems, and use of appropriate up-to-date engineering design tools and methods. Furthermore, manufacturing yield and reliability are interrelated. Manufacturing yield depends on the number of defects found during both the manufacturing process and the warranty period, which in turn determines the reliability. The production of microelectronics has evolved into one of the world's largest manufacturing industries since the early 1970s. As a result, an important agenda is the study of reliability issues in fabricating microelectronic products and consequently the systems that employ these products, particularly the new generation of microelectronics. Such an agenda should include the economic impact of employing the microelectronics fabricated by industry a study of the relationship between reliability and yield the progression toward miniaturization and higher reliability and the correctness and complexity of new system designs which include a very significant portion of software
