

The READ WRITE LEARNER

Characteristics

Studies to learn

You learn by reading and writing and fit well into the traditional style of learning by using books and writing notes.

Likes to read

You prefer to read or write down something to learn it. You like essay questions and books and will look words up in dictionaries.

Big on notes

You are likely to take loads of notes in meetings, at presentations and in class. This helps you to remember what is being said.

Perfect student?

You tend to stay interested in traditional style presentations or classes, except if you don't have a pen and paper! Then you struggle to take it all in and get distracted.

Struggles with ...

You tend not to learn well through diagrams. You may also find disorganised presentations hard to follow.

Learning Tips

Read

Obviously! You will take in information better if you read it yourself. Hold on to your handouts and notes.

Take notes

This is so important for you as the act of writing notes makes you remember. Always carry a pen and paper and write everything down.

Re-write

Once you've taken notes, re-write them. This repetition is the best way to get information to stay in your brain.

Use your words

When re-writing your notes, try to put things in your own words. This will help you remember concepts and facts better.

5

Translate

If you are struggling with a diagram, try adding notes to explain it or even translating it into your own words.

Adult Learning and Social Change in the UK Jules Robbins, Alan Rogers, 2023-02-09

Adult education offers the potential to enhance the individual s sense of agency to direct and improve their future this is especially important in times of significant societal unrest It may lead to social change and even social justice This book begins with a new consideration of historical perspectives of radical adult education in the UK and how these might inform planning for future adult education which is both relevant and emancipatory The volume aims to capture some of the messiness of adult education through analysis of a wide range of its many forms and a focus on the learners themselves the different kinds of providers and the wider community around them Individual chapters offer insights into an environmental community gardening scheme provision for refugees and asylum seekers the radical role of volunteers the impact of discussion groups for older people and the National Community Service scheme for young adults The book considers the significance of the Sustainable Development Goals each of which includes targets linked with adult training awareness raising or education Considering the factors for effective adult education programmes for social change this volume questions the extent to which it can be argued that positive social change results from adult education Active learning group learning and education which is practical flexible and individualised may provide the best routes ahead The wide ranging case studies demonstrate the importance of recognising and valuing adult learners prior knowledge and the need for alternative approaches to assessment
