FESTIVE WOE AS TOWN VENUES CLOSE

By Mark Wank

North Wales Correspondent

MORE businesses in Colwyn Bay closed last week, with staff being made redundant and some staff being told that their jobs were at risk. The closure of the town's main shopping centre, Colwyn Bay Retail, on or around December 14, with staff at the business only informed of the closure when they came into work, with staff members telling residents that they were not given a notice for the closure. The closure had been at the site for several years, sharing a site with a fish shop and the former Woolworths site.

Following suddenly closed, the business has been seen with a notice on its door for residents.

One resident told the Pioneer: "I was just in there buying food and asked for an item on the menu."

"The young lady told me they didn't have any more of the ingredients for this particular sandwich and then informed me that the shop was closing."

"Staff had only just been told about the closure."
