Marston, Paul L. Knox, Diana M. Liverman, 2002 This explicitly global approach to world regional geography emphasizes global connections and the stories behind the maps and offers lively discussions of how these forces and processes play themselves out in individual places The authors make the most current and powerful ideas in geography accessible to the introductory student Emphasis on core regions key cities and distinctive landscapes accommodates a global connections approach as well as the course's traditional focus on places at the local scale Rhumb Lines and Map Wars Mark Monmonier, 2010-11-15 In Rhumb Lines and Map Wars Mark Monmonier offers an insightful richly illustrated account of the controversies surrounding Flemish cartographer Gerard Mercator's legacy He takes us back to 1569 when Mercator announced a clever method of portraying the earth on a flat surface creating the first projection to take into account the earth's roundness As Monmonier shows mariners benefited most from Mercator's projection which allowed for easy navigation of the high seas with rhumb lines clear cut routes with a constant compass bearing for true direction But the projection's popularity among nineteenth century sailors led to its overuse often in inappropriate non navigational ways for wall maps world atlases and geopolitical propaganda Because it distorts the proportionate size of countries the Mercator map was criticized for inflating Europe and North America in a promotion of colonialism In 1974 German historian Arno Peters proffered his own map on which countries were ostensibly drawn in true proportion to one another In the ensuing map wars of the 1970s and 1980s these dueling projections vied for public support with varying degrees of success Widely acclaimed for his accessible intelligent books on maps and mapping Monmonier here examines the uses and limitations of one of cartography's most significant innovations. With informed skepticism he offers insightful interpretations of why well intentioned clerics and development advocates rallied around the Peters projection which flagrantly distorted the shape of Third World nations, why journalists covering the controversy ignored alternative world maps and other key issues and how a few postmodern writers defended the Peters worldview with a self serving overstatement of the power of maps. Rhumb Lines and Map Wars is vintage Monmonier, historically rich, beautifully written and fully engaged with the issues of our time.

Geographies of Food and Power Amy Trauger, 2022-08-17 This book provides a comprehensive overview of the production and consumption of food suitable for use in undergraduate classrooms either at the intermediate or advanced level. It takes an intersectional approach to difference and power and approaches standard subjects in the geography of food with a fresh perspective focusing on inequality, uneven production and legacies of colonialism. The book also focuses on places and regions often overlooked in conventional narratives such as the Americas in the domestication of plants. The topics covered in the textbook include descriptions and analyses of food systems, histories of agricultural development with a focus on the roles of different regions, major commodities such as meat, grains and produce with a focus on the place of production, contemporary challenges in the food system including labor, disasters, conflict and climate change, recent and emerging trends in food and agriculture such as lab grown meat and vertical urban farms. Geographies of Food and Power takes a synthetic approach by discussing food as something produced within an interconnected system in which labor, food quality and the environment are considered together. It will be a valuable resource for students of human geography, environmental geography, economic geography, food studies and development.

Building Resilient Cities in China: The Nexus between Planning and Science Xueming Chen, Qisheng Pan, 2015-05-20 This book discusses a range of planning and management issues related to building urban resiliency. It covers such topics as urban environmental and transportation planning, historical preservation, emergency relief and management, geographic information systems, GIS and other technological applications. The book includes case studies of several cities and districts in China including Shanghai and a number of cities in the United States of America. Urban resiliency in the face of uncertainty is a priority for planning and governance in communities worldwide. In China, which has suffered many of the world's most devastating floods, earthquakes and typhoons, preparing for the threat of disaster has long been an important planning objective. Recent calamities such as the 2008 Winter Storms, the 2008 Wenchuan Earthquake and the 2012 Beijing Floods have only made planning for resiliency more urgent. As planners work to prepare for such events, interdisciplinary collaboration becomes increasingly important. Planners need the tools and insights offered by other fields including both the natural and social sciences. At the same time, these interdisciplinary relationships help shape the identity of urban/rural planning in its new role as one of China's primary academic disciplines. Thus, the nexus between planning and science is critically important in building resilient cities in China and the Chinese planning experience can serve as an example to and benefit countries around the world.

Better By Design? Paul L. Knox, 2020-10-09. The design professions—architecture, city planning, landscape architecture, and urban design—share a great deal in terms of intellectual antecedents, professional ideals, and praxis. In particular, they share a commitment to creating better cities, whether at the scale of buildings, neighborhoods, or city regions. But who decides what constitutes a good city, and how should such an ideal be implemented? In Better by Design, Paul Knox explores the intellectual roots of the design professions, showing how architects, planners, and other designers have traditionally interpreted their roles and implemented their ideas in cities across North America and the UK. Drawing on his long record of research and award-winning publications on the social production of the built environment, Knox offers a critical appraisal of their ultimate effectiveness in achieving the goal of creating and sustaining good cities      The Middle East and North Africa Alasdair Drysdale, 2024-10-15 This contemporary text the first in over a decade on the region presents the geography of the Middle East and North Africa defined as the Arab World Israel Turkey Iran and Afghanistan Thematically organized the book's eleven chapters focus on the region's physical and climatic setting demographic characteristics migration patterns religious and linguistic diversity political map offshore claims oil and gas resources and subregions and states Within this framework Drysdale emphasizes pressing current problems the impact of climate change in a region where some areas already suffer from extreme summer heat and aridity the challenge of providing additional water in a region where per capita availability of freshwater is already the lowest in the world the impact of high fertility and rapid population growth in a fragile environment where economies are often unable to absorb young workers entering the labor force the looming prospect of an aging population the effects of out and in migration the diverse impact and role of Islam in daily and public life the integrative consequences of linguistic and ethnic diversity the evolution and imperfections of the political map ongoing territorial and boundary disputes that often have global repercussions external dependence on the region's prolific oil and gas resources and the extreme regional inequalities associated with their presence or absence This timely and insightful analysis is essential reading for students of the region who need a better understanding of key regional characteristics challenges and issues      Closet Space Michael P. Brown, 2005-08-29 Is the closet just a metaphor Closet Space provides a highly original account of the spatial metaphor of the closet and is the first geography text to focus on this important issue Using a variety of research techniques and materials the book explores the closet through texts including the oral histories of gay men in the UK and US the sexualised landscape of a New Zealand city the national census of Britain and the US international travel guides and travelogues and refers to the work of Butler Lefebvre and Foucault      Border Cities and Territorial Development Eduardo Medeiros, 2021-11-21 This monograph analyses the role of border cities in promoting territorial development processes in border regions across the world It not only embraces the scientific fields of regional and urban studies but also addresses territorial urban local regional development and planning theories as well as the effects of development policies applied to border regions in both Europe and North America In essence the book offers a full toolkit of border regions territorial development knowledge and in particular advances a range of policy development proposals It provides a comprehensive introduction to contemporary thinking about how border cities can play a decisive role in boosting territorial development processes in border regions The book is divided into three parts Part I presents a theoretical framework on the role of border cities in promoting territorial development and planning in border regions Part II debates current mainstream policies focusing on supporting border regions and specifically border cities in the EU the UK and North America Finally Part III presents a wealth of updated knowledge based on the analysis of several concrete case studies border cities from both Europe north south east and west and North America Canada the United States and Mexico The chapters are written by some of the most renowned authors on the subject including scholars from several European and North American countries as well as the secretary generals of three European border regions associations AEBR MOT and CESCO The book will thoroughly prepare students and provide knowledge to academics and policymakers in the fields of urban and regional planning and development studies human geography economic development EU policies border regions and policy impacts
