Practical Training Strategies For The Future:

Practical Training Strategies for the Future Sue Brelade, Chris Harman, Tony Miller, 1999 In today's tough business climate you need a strategic approach to training to achieve the level of cost effectiveness and service delivery necessary for success Practical Training Strategies for the Future offers advice, guidance and practical tips to help you accomplish this. It provides a step by step approach to developing a training strategy. Developed with the busy manager or training professional in mind, it has an easy to use format featuring diagrams, summaries and checklists. Contents include: Introducing a strategic approach to training; Training links to HR strategy; Tailoring training to the needs of the business; Promoting individual learning and development; Working with technology; Skills for the strategic training function. OECD Skills Strategy 2019: Skills to Shape a Better Future OECD, 2019-05-22 The OECD Skills Strategy provides a strategic and comprehensive approach for ensuring that people and countries have the skills to thrive in a complex, interconnected and rapidly changing world. The updated 2019 OECD Skills Strategy takes account of the lessons learned from applying the original skills strategy in 11 countries since 2012. Supporting Training Strategies for Brigade Combat Teams Using Future Combat Systems (FCS) Technologies Michael G. Shanley, 2007 This study seeks to help the Army identify options to improve its future, i.e. circa 2016 training strategies for Brigade Combat Teams (BCTs) equipped with Future Combat System (FCS) technologies. Key findings are that live training will need to remain at the core of training programs for FCS units and that adaptation to changing operational requirements will be a primary training challenge. Overall, the findings indicate that planned training enhancements can provide important improvements across a wide spectrum; however, the overall training capability achieved will likely be less than that needed to meet future training requirements. Unit time, the potential for technological advancement and training budgets were found to be key constraints. While the study stresses greater emphasis on training manpower support in battle command training as the Army's best chance for significant near-term improvement, it concludes that longer-term improvement will depend on how closely the Army monitors and manages its enhancement programs. The process of shaping and balancing future training enhancements, for example, would benefit from better information and improved evaluative capabilities. These changes would be further enhanced by developing better metrics for the quality, quantity and adaptability of training by continuing to improve spiral development processes to evolve training methods and means and by improving the visibility of financial information across training categories. Prototype Staff Training and Evaluation Methods for Future Forces May H. Throne, 1999 Training Computer Skills for the Future Battlefield May H. Throne, 1997 As the Army moves toward a digital battlefield, the nation's defense will become reliant on the computer skills of its leaders, soldiers and civilians. To embody this future force, Army training must successfully address the acquisition, retention and transfer of computer skills. As a first step toward this goal, this research product reviews the literature concerning the acquisition, retention and transfer of computer-based skills. A review of 76 articles examining the training domains of programming software simulation and gaming ability was performed General conclusions for each training area acquisition retention and transfer are presented In general the research does not build on previous findings in the area In addition many areas such as the long term retention of computer skills and individual difference variables remain to be explored DTIC
