What Keeps Us Together and Makes Us Effective? Eliseo Vilalta-Perdomo, 2010-03 For a long time, what was on offer to advise people was restricted to joining divinely inspired or powerful collectives. In the last couple of centuries, the emphasis has shifted towards being informed about the environment in which actions take place, irrespective of whether these are good or bad. Further shifts in how action is informed now emphasise the use of interfaces. The aim of this work is to find the point where a suitable referent or validation criterion would be available. In the report, it is argued theoretically and empirically that this point is characterised by the notion of an internally structured and stable collective performing a collective task. This notion distinguishes members' activities inside a collective that inform each other as well as contribute to the maintenance of the collective from collective actions. Knowledge resulting from the use of this notion refers to what makes the collective survive in some environment and includes knowledge that helps distinguish between good actions that contribute to the collective performing its task and bad ones.

Environmental Communication. Second Edition Richard R. Jurin, Donny Roush, K. Jeffrey Danter, 2010-07-20 Environmental professionals can no longer simply publish research in technical journals. Informing the public is now a critical part of the job. Environmental Communication demonstrates step by step how it is done and is an essential guide for communicating complex information to groups not familiar with scientific material. It addresses the entire communications process from message planning, audience analysis, and media relations to public speaking skills. A good communicator must master for effective public dialogue. Environmental Communication provides all the knowledge and tools you need to reach your target audience in a persuasive and highly professional manner. This book will certainly help produce the skills for environmental communications sorely needed for industry, government, and non-profit groups, as well as an informed public. Sol P. Baltimore, Director, Environmental Communications and Adjunct Faculty, Hazardous Waste Management Program, Department of Chemical Engineering, College of Engineering, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan. All environmental education professionals agree that the practice of good communications is essential for the success of any program. This book provides practical skills for this concern. Ju Chou, Associate Professor, Graduate Institute of Environmental Education, National Taiwan Normal University, Taipei, Taiwan.
