Berney, 2012-12-06 J T Sandefur Western Kentucky University American's ability to compete in world markets is eroding The productivity growth of our competitors outdistances our own The capacity of our economy to provide a high standard of living for all our people is increasingly in doubt As jobs requiring little skill are automated or go offshore and demand increases for the highly skilled the pool of educated and skilled people grows smaller and the backwater of the unemployable rises Large numbers of American children are in limbo ignorant of the past and unprepared for the future Many are dropping out not just out of school but out of productive society These are not my words They are a direct quote from the Executive Summary of the Carnegie Forum Report on Education and the Economy entitled A Nation Prepared Teachers for the 21st Century p 2 1986 This report was motivated by four purposes 1 To remind Americans yet again of the economic challenges pressing us on all sides 2 To assert the primacy of education as the foundation of economic growth equal opportunity and a shared national vision 3 To reaffirm that the teaching profession is the best hope for establishing new standards of excellence as the hallmark of American education and 4 To point out that a remarkable window of opportunity lies before us in the next decade to reform education an opportunity that may not present itself again until well into the next century A Field Guide to Student Teaching in Music Ann C. Glass,Krishna Bista,2022-02-22 This book explores emerging populations of mobile international students in order to consider innovative and inclusive approaches for a more equitable and socially just higher education for new generations of international students It offers critical reflections on the intersections of race place and space at universities hosting international students across multiple geographic and cultural contexts The volume is designed to catalyze debate on how international student learning and exchange needs to be reimagined for new generations of students in a world of increasing complexity and virtual mobility International student mobility in higher education is intended to serve as an educational experience that speaks to the need for more interculturally sensitive and globally competent learners. However, internationalization practices like study abroad have increasingly been influenced by neoliberalism and dynamics of commodification and consumerism, emphasizing the private benefits of such experiences in terms of the social and economic benefits to individual participants. This raises the question of inequality in such internationalization practices: who is benefitting from it? As post-secondary institutions around the world become more and more internationalized, what are the undesirable effects of these developments? Given the rapid expansion of research on both internationalization and inequality in higher education, it is foreseeable that this book will become a much referenced text within the field and profession.
