Professional Learning Conversations Lorna M. Earl, Helen Timperley, 2008-02-29 This is the first book in the series Professional Learning and Development in Schools and Higher Education is edited by two experienced committed and skilled educationists from different parts of the world but with converging values and viewpoints. The result is a rich range of authors from the USA, Australia, South Africa, Canada, and New Zealand, all of whom focus on the use of evidence informed decision making in schools and classrooms. This focus makes for an unusual collection which acts as an antidote to change agendas which are entirely results driven. The book provides evidence from a variety of countries of how system leaders, teachers in schools and higher education must now manage as part of their endeavours to provide the best possible learning and achievement opportunities for all students. What makes this book unique is its engagement with the realities of the challenge of evidence informed conversations which all too quickly become activity traps as teachers are steered away from evidence towards adopting short term pragmatic or ideological solutions which suit the policy agendas of reformists from outside schools and more often than not fail to result in real changes in teaching and learning.

Designing Better Schools for Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Children Stuart McNaughton, 2011-06-06 The science of performance model of school change this book proposes to enable equitable academic outcomes for culturally and linguistically diverse children is based on a specific process of research and development in local contexts and on assumptions about teachers teaching and research.

Data-based Decision Making in Education Kim Schildkamp, Mei Kuin Lai, Lorna Earl, 2012-09-17 In a context where schools are held more and more accountable for the education they provide data based decision making has become increasingly important. This book brings together scholars from several countries to examine data based decision making. Data based decision making in this book refers to making decisions based on a broad range of evidence such as scores on students assessments, classroom observations etc. This book supports policy makers, people working with schools, researchers and school leaders and teachers in the use of data by bringing together the current research conducted on data use across multiple countries into a single volume. Some of these studies are best practice studies where effective data use has led to improvements in student learning. Others provide insight into challenges in both policy and practice environments. Each of them draws on research and literature in the field.
