Dominion Built of Praise Jonathan Decter, 2018-08-14 A constant feature of Jewish culture in the medieval Mediterranean was the dedication of panegyric texts in Hebrew Judeo Arabic and other languages to men of several ranks scholars communal leaders courtiers merchants patrons and poets Although the imagery of nature and eroticism in the preludes to these poems is often studied the substance of what follows is generally neglected as it is perceived to be repetitive obsequious and less aesthetically interesting than other types of poetry from the period In Dominion Built of Praise Jonathan Decter demurs As is the case with visual portraits panegyrics operate according to a code of cultural norms that tell us at least as much about the society that produced them as the individuals they portray Looking at the phenomenon of panegyric in Mediterranean Jewish culture from several overlapping perspectives social historical ethical poetic political and theological he finds that they offer representations of Jewish political leadership as it varied across geographic area and evolved over time Decter focuses his analysis primarily on Jewish centers in the Islamic Mediterranean between the tenth and thirteenth centuries and also includes a chapter on Jews in the Christian Mediterranean through the fifteenth century He examines the hundreds of panegyrics that have survived some copied repeatedly in luxurious anthologies others discarded haphazardly in the Cairo Geniza According to Decter the poems extolled conventional character traits ascribed to leaders not only diachronically within the Jewish political tradition but also synchronically within Islamic and to a lesser extent Christian civilization and political culture Dominion Built of Praise reveals more than a superficial and functional parallel between Muslim and Jewish forms of statecraft and demonstrates how ideas of Islamic political legitimacy profoundly shaped the ways in which Jews conceptualized and portrayed their own leadership
