Abstract

Theories of second language acquisition (SLA) play an important role in second language (L2) learning. These theories can help both language teachers and their students to understand L2 language learning process. There are various theories and approaches of SLA which try to explain how L2 learning takes place. Each theory accounts for L2 acquisition from a different perspective. This paper describes and compares five theories of L2 acquisition: Contrastive Analysis (CA), Error Analysis (EA), Markedness Theory, Universal Grammar (UG) and Monitor Theory, explains their contributions to L2 learning and shows the criticism of each theory. First, in Contrastive Analysis, the weak and strong hypotheses and types of language transfer are explained. Second, in Error Analysis, attitudes towards errors and aims, process and models of Error Analysis are described. Third, in Markedness Theory, the role of typological markedness in the explanation of L2 learning, the Markedness Differential Hypothesis (MDH) and the Structural Conformity Hypothesis (SCH) are explained. Fourth, in Universal Grammar, it is shown that L2 acquisition occurs on the basis of first language (L1) acquisition: L2 acquisition is a matter of setting the correct L2 parameters. The Language Acquisition Device (LAD) and L2 access to UG are explained. Finally, in Monitor Theory, it is suggested that comprehensible input is crucial for L2 acquisition and the five hypotheses of the theory are explained: (a) The Input Hypothesis, (b) The Learning-Acquisition Hypothesis, (c) The Monitor Hypothesis, (d) The Natural Order Hypothesis and (e) The Affective Filter Hypothesis.

Second Language Learning, 1983 Error Analysis in English Language Teaching Elvina Arapah, 2023-10-10 The use of language especially for second third languages or foreign languages is inseparable from errors in either oral or written use In analyzing these language errors the approach used is contrastively and non contrastively This book covers what is means by Error and Mistake types of language learning errors such as Global and Local Error In its taxonomies errors observed in the acquisition of English as a second language as 1 Overgeneralization 2 Ignorance of rule restriction 3 Incomplete application of rules and 4 False concepts hypothesized Sources of errors are divided into 1 Interference transfer 2 Intralingual transfer 3 Context of learning and 4 Communication strategies In conducting error analysis there are several procedures that can be used as a reference 1 Collecting a sample of learner language 2 identifying the errors 3 describing the errors and 4 explaining the errors Analysis of these language errors both oral and written is needed because the results of the analysis will indicate the treatment that can be done for language learning The Routledge Handbook of Korean as a Second Language Andrew Sangpil Byon, Danielle Ooyoung Pyun, 2022-04-19 The Routledge Handbook of Korean as a Second Language aims to define the field and to present the latest research in Korean as a second language KSL It comprises a detailed overview of the field of KSL teaching and learning discusses its development and captures critical cutting edge research within its major subfields As the first handbook of KSL published in English this book will be of particular interest to advanced undergraduates graduate students language teachers curriculum developers and researchers in the fields of KSL and applied linguistics While each chapter will be authored by internationally renowned scholars in its major subfields the handbook aims to maintain accessibility so that it can also be of value to non specialists Second Language Acquisition and Linguistic Variation Robert Bayley, Dennis Richard Preston, 1996-01-01 This volume corrects the relative neglect in Second Language Acquisition studies of the quantitative study of language variation and provides insights into such issues as language transfer acquisition through exposure language universals learner s age and so forth These studies bolster the idea that a full account of SLA development and hence a theory of SLA must be built on not only detailed accounts of interlanguage data but also on a wide appeal to factors which govern the psycholinguistic bases of SLA An important addition to the volume is a comprehensive guide to both the DOS and Macintosh versions of the VARBRUL statistical program used by variationists Error Analysis Bernd Spillner, 1991-04-12 Errors are information In contrastive linguistics they are thought to be caused by unconscious transfer of mother tongue structures to the system of the target language and give information about both systems In the interlanguage hypothesis of second language acquisition errors are indicative of the different intermediate learning levels and are useful pedagogical feedback In both cases error analysis is an essential methodological tool for diagnosis and evaluation of the language acquisition process Errors too give information in psychoanalysis e g the Freudian slip in language universal research and in other fields of linguistics such as linguistic change This bibliography is

McCarthy, Ronald Carter, 2014-07-22 In this book Michael McCarthy and Ronald Carter describe the discursial properties of language and demonstrate what insights this approach can offer to the student and teacher of language The authors examine the relationship between complete texts both spoken and written and the social and cultural contexts in which they function They argue that the functions of language are often best understood in a discursial environment and that exploring language in context compels us to revise commonly held understandings about the forms and meanings of language In so doing the authors argue the need for language teachers syllabus planners and curriculum organisers to give greater attention to language as discourse Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics Mushira Eid, John McCarthy, 1990-01-01 The papers in this

Birdsong,2012-12-06 It is often assumed that metalinguistic performance e g detection of ambiguity judgments of grammaticality straightforwardly reflects linguistic knowledge The inadequacies of such an assumption are explored in this volume which documents the subtleties of the relationship between metalinguistic performance and knowledge of a second language interlinguistic competence from the perspectives of language acquisition theory and cognitive and developmental psychology This thorough and up to date examination of metalinguistic phenomena offers insight to those involved in designing elicitation materials analyzing and interpreting metalinguistic performance data and applying such evidence to descriptions of interlanguage grammars and to second language acquisition theory The book also contributes constructively to the current debate concerning the role of metalinguistic variables in second language acquisition that is how they ultimately affect success or failure in learning a second language Arabic as One Language Mahmoud

Al-Batal,2017-12-04 For decades students learning the Arabic language have begun with Modern Standard Arabic MSA and then transitioned to learning spoken Arabic While the MSA first approach neither reflects the sociolinguistic reality of the language nor gives students the communicative skills required to fully function in Arabic the field continues to debate the widespread adoption of this approach Little research or evidence has been presented about the effectiveness of integrating dialect in the curriculum With the recent publication of textbooks that integrate dialect in the Arabic curriculum however a more systematic analysis of such integration is clearly becoming necessary In this seminal volume Mahmoud Al Batal gathers key scholars who have implemented integration to present data and research on the method s success The studies address curricular models students outcomes and attitudes of students and teachers using integration in their curricula This volume is an essential resource for all teachers of Arabic language and those working in Teaching Arabic as a Foreign Language TAFL Pragmatics and its Applications to TESOL and SLA Salvatore Attardo,Lucy Pickering,2021-04-29 A concise

Language Acquisition and Development Misha Becker, Kamil Ud Deen, 2020-03-10 An introduction to the study of children's language development that provides a uniquely accessible perspective on generative universal grammar based approaches. How children acquire language so quickly and uniformly is one of the great mysteries of the human experience. The theory of Universal Grammar suggests that one reason for the relative ease of early language acquisition is that children are born with a predisposition to create a grammar. This textbook offers an introduction to the study of children's acquisition and development of language from a generative universal grammar based theoretical perspective providing comprehensive coverage of children's acquisition while presenting core concepts crucial to understanding generative linguistics more broadly. After laying the theoretical groundwork including consideration of alternative frameworks the book explores the development of the sound system of language children's perception and production of speech sound examines how words are learned lexical semantics and how words are formed morphology investigates sentence structure syntax including argument structure functional structure and tense considers such nontypical circumstances as acquiring a first language past infancy and early childhood without the abilities to hear or see and with certain cognitive disorders and studies bilingual language acquisition both simultaneously and in sequence. Each chapter offers a summary section suggestions for further reading and exercises designed to test students' understanding of the material and provide opportunities to practice analyzing children's language. Appendixes provide charts of the International Phonetic Alphabet with links to websites that allow students to listen to the sounds associated with these symbols and a summary of selected experimental methodologies. Due Respect

Pauline Christie, 2001 Professor Robert Le Page was a pioneer in the field of English and Creole linguistics in the Caribbean. This collection of papers in honour of Le Page addresses various topics in the field pointing out the ways in which Le Page and his work have influenced, stimulated or been ignored by others. This is the first book on Caribbean language studies to include original sections on language in education, speakers' behaviour in informal discourse and language structure. Based on sound linguistic scholarship the thirteen chapters are organized in three sections: Pedagogical and Sociological Structure and Discourse. Caribbean linguists have long been concerned that the findings of scholars in this field have been inaccessible to teachers and others interested in linguistics in the Caribbean. This book is geared for a wide audience including school teachers, university students and teachers of linguistics in the Caribbean and the United States and researchers on Creole languages. Life in Language Immersion Classrooms

Elizabeth Buchter Bernhardt, 1992 This volume chronicles a project that involved the staff and principals in the midwestern United States in collaboration with a team of educational researchers. Included as chapters are qualitative studies of immersion teachers, analyses of the use of drama and children's literature and discussions of staff preparation and maintenance for immersion schooling.
