Outsourcing and Service Work in the New Economy José-Luis Álvarez-Galván, 2012-03-15 This book examines the impact of outsourcing on workers and their employment conditions in the new economy To do so the call centre industry in Mexico City is analysed through a large number of in depth interviews with workers and managers available statistics and visits to leading firms in the sector The case of call centres is paradigmatic as it is often seen as a flagship industry of the new economy rapidly growing and subject to high pressures for costs reduction The Mexican experience is crucially relevant to understand employment conditions in a weak institutional setting where labour protection is low and business competition intense Overall outsourcing has gained popularity as a mechanism to deal with the uncertainty of increasingly challenging business environments Nonetheless the practice of outsourcing also raises important concerns This book identifies those managerial practices which have a substantial impact on workers and their employment conditions such as job designs customer segmentation non standard contracts intensified supervision union avoidance limited career opportunities and strict social divisions in the workplace These findings also suggest that a number of practices that were common in the old economy are still dominant in the organisation of work in the twenty first century The book is a useful reference for scholars and students concerned with employment and labour studies economic development and globalisation

The Unmanageable Consumer Yiannis Gabriel, Tim Lang, 2015-09-21 The Unmanageable Consumer has long been one of my favorite books in the sociology of consumption This long overdue third edition has updated and revised the basic argument in many ways Most importantly it now offers a new chapter on the consumer as worker or more generally the prosumer Assign it to your classes I have and will again and read it for your edification George Ritzer Distinguished University Professor University of Maryland USA Western style consumerism is often presented as unstoppable yet its costs mount and its grip on consumer reality weakens In this 20th Anniversary edition Gabriel and Lang restate their thesis that consumerism is more fragile and unmanageable than is assumed by its proponents Consumerism has been both stretched and undermined by globalization the internet social media and other cultural changes Major environmental threats debt squeezed incomes and social inequalities now temper Western consumers appetite for spending The 20th century Deal first championed by Henry Ford of more consumption from higher waged work looks tattered This edition of The Unmanageable Consumer continues to explore 10 different consumer models and encourages analysis of contemporary consumerism It looks at the spread of consumerism to developing countries like India and China and considers the effects of demographic changes and migration and points to new features such as consumers taking on unwaged work New to this edition Coverage of new phenomenon such as social media and emerging markets Explores contemporary topics including the occupy movement and horsemeat scandal A new chapter on the consumer as worker This is a remarkable and important book The new edition updates consumer cultural studies to take into account austerity politics and the economic crisis and the impact these have had on how we think about and experience everyday practices of shopping and consuming The authors also build on and maintain the lively and challenging argument from the previous volumes which sees the consumer as an unstable space for a multiplicity of often contradictory responses which can unsettle the various strategies on the part of contemporary capitalism to have us buy more Angela McRobbie Goldsmiths University of London The book exemplifies how social science should be engaged insightful imaginative scholarly and highly socially and politically relevant Strongly recommended to students academics as well as all people interested in understanding our time and themselves in an age of consumerism and false promises Mats Alvesson Professor of Business Administration Lund University Sweden
