Lost In The Archives:

Lost in the Archives Rebecca Comay, 2002 There is a crisis in the archives The contemporary world requires that increasingly vast amounts of material be archived and accessed and this presents unprecedented possibilities and problems for the production storage and use of knowledge With this context in view Lost in the Archives explores the productive potential of memory s failures its technical dropouts omissions burials eclipses and denials Page 2 de la couverture The Lost Archive Marina Rustow, 2020-01-14 A compelling look at the Fatimid caliphate s robust culture of documentation The lost archive of the Fatimid caliphate 909 1171 survived in an unexpected place the storage room or geniza of a synagogue in Cairo recycled as scrap paper and deposited there by medieval Jews Marina Rustow tells the story of this extraordinary find inviting us to reconsider the longstanding but mistaken consensus that before 1500 the dynasties of the Islamic Middle East produced few documents and preserved even fewer Beginning with government documents before the Fatimids and paper s westward spread across Asia Rustow reveals a millennial tradition of state record keeping whose very continuities suggest the strength of Middle Eastern institutions not their weakness Tracing the complex routes by which Arabic documents made their way from Fatimid palace officials to Jewish scribes the book provides a rare window onto a robust culture of documentation and archiving not only comparable to that of medieval Europe but in many cases surpassing it Above all Rustow argues that the problem of archives in the medieval Middle East lies not with the region s administrative culture but with our failure to understand preindustrial documentary ecology Illustrated with stunning examples from the Cairo Geniza this compelling book advances our understanding of documents as physical artifacts showing how the records of the Fatimid caliphate once recovered deciphered and studied can help change our thinking about the medieval Islamic world and about premodern polities more broadly Raiders of the Lost Archives Michael Dahl, 2021 Archival Silences Michael Moss, David Thomas, 2021-05-10 Archival Silences demonstrates emphatically that archival absences exist all over the globe The book questions whether benign silence is an appropriate label for the variety of destructions concealment and absences that can be identified within archival collections Including contributions from archivists and scholars working around the world this truly international collection examines archives in Australia Brazil Denmark England India Iceland Jamaica Malawi The Philippines Scotland Turkey and the United States Making a clear link between autocratic regimes and the failure to record often horrendous crimes against humanity the volume demonstrates that the failure of governments to create records or to allow access to records appears to be universal Arguing that this helps to establish a hegemonic narrative that excludes the other this book showcases the actions historians and archivists have taken to ensure that gaps in archives are filled Yet the book also claims that silences in archives are inevitable and argues not only that recordkeeping should be mandated by international courts and bodies but that we need to develop other ways of reading archives broadly conceived to compensate for absences Archival Silences addresses fundamental issues of access to the written record around the world It is directed at
