A Lot of Give Catherine M. Walker, Catherina Pharoah, National Council for Voluntary Organisations (Great Britain), 2002-01-01 What makes people give to charity Is the wealth divide prompting a new age of philanthropy Or is the spirit of giving drying up in an increasingly fragmented individualistic materialistic global society A Lot of Give is the first book to provide up to date information on both the art and science of giving in the UK today Decisions to give are not only about values or faith They result from good charity communications personal finance planning and evidence that donations can make difference to social needs The current climate is seeing a decline in charitable social giving amidst growing social wealth Many people could give much more than they do And all those involved in charities should be asking themselves why don t Charities need to capture a new spirit of giving though developing more imaginative and appropriate techniques of giving This book aims to provide a significant resource for all those involved in stimulating a new age and culture of giving It pulls together for the first time a wide range of information and research on trends in who gives why people give how much people give how people give e philanthropy tax incentives and tax effective giving pub The Business of Giving P.

the internal factors which drove BBC news and offers a rare case study of how the media can affect public opinion and policymaking It constructs the process that accounts for the immensity of the news event following the response at the heart of government to the pressure of public opinion And it shows that while the reporting and the altruistic festival that it produced triggered remarkable and identifiable changes the on going impact was not what the conventional account claims it to have been
