International Commercial Sales: The Sale of Goods on Shipment Terms Andrea Lista, 2016-11-18 This book comprehensively examines the entire legal process of the international sale of goods beginning with the creation of the contract and continuing through to either the fulfilment of the sale or the termination of the contract Every day goods are globally traded between sellers and buyers in different countries and different jurisdictions The distances between the parties involved in such transactions and the relative risks related to that are a key issue in international commercial sales Sales of goods carried by sea thus differ quite drastically from domestic sales the goods will be normally shipped at a port very distant from the buyer preventing his physical presence at the port of loading Further the goods will travel in the custody of a carrier a party normally quite independent from either trader Finally transactions concluded on shipment terms are normally irreversible in the sense that shipping the goods back to the seller represents an unlikely option for the buyer Traders around the world very frequently choose English law to govern their contracts with disputes to be resolved through London arbitration or litigation The basis of that law is to be found in the English Sale of Goods Act 1979 and the book consequently also includes an examination of the fundamental principles of that Act as well as considering use of the Vienna Convention on the International Sale of Goods This book will be an invaluable reference point for legal practitioners specialising in the sale of goods as well as postgraduate students and academic researchers working in sales of goods and the international trade sector business people This book explores these neglected issues within contract law It examines the idea of commercial expectation identifying what expectations commercial contractors may have about the law and their business relationships using empirical studies of contracting behaviour and assesses the extent to which current contract law reflects these expectations It considers whether supporting commercial expectations is a justifiable aim of the law according to three well established theoretical approaches to contractual obligations rights based explanations efficiency based or economic explanations and the relational contract critique of the classical law It explores the specific challenges presented to contract law by modern commercial relationships and the ways in which the general rules of contract law could be designed and applied in order to meet these challenges Ultimately the book seeks to move contract law beyond a simple dichotomy between contextualist and formalist legal reasoning to a more nuanced and responsive legal approach to the regulation of commercial agreements
