Ten Teije,S. Miksch,P. Lucas,2008-07-24 This book brings together results from different branches of computer science in particular artificial intelligence medical informatics and medicine to examine cutting edge approaches to computer based guideline modeling verification and interpretation Different methods have been developed to support the development deployment maintenance and use of evidence based guidelines using techniques from artificial intelligence software engineering medical informatics and formal methods Such methods employ different representation formalisms and computational techniques As the guideline related research spans a wide range of research communities a comprehensive integration of the results of these communities was lacking It is the intention of this book to fill this gap It is the first book of its kind that partially has the nature of a textbook The book consists of two parts The first part consists of nine chapters which together offer a comprehensive overview of the most important medical and computer science aspects of clinical guidelines and protocols The second part of the book consists of chapters that are extended versions of selected papers that were originally submitted to the ECAI 2006 workshop AI Techniques in Health Care Evidence based Guidelines and Protocols These chapters will provide the reader detailed information about actual research in the area by leading researchers      Evidence-Based Practices in Mental Health Care American Psychiatric Association,2008-05-20 As the first attempt to synthesize the movement toward widespread implementation of evidence based mental health practices this groundbreaking collection articulates the basic tenets of evidence based medicine and shows how practices proven effective by clinical services research could improve the lives of many people Intended to stimulate much needed public discussion these remarkable contributions cover both general issues such as Implementing practices in routine mental health settings including strategies for disseminating evidence based practices to staff members Ensuring that efforts to implement such practices are informed by the knowledge and experience of administrators clinicians patients and advocates Integrating evidence based practices with the recovery model and focusing on guidelines and algorithms for pharmacologic treatment of people with severe mental illness Identifying the policy implications of the movement particularly in public sector settings and describing eight courses of action for addressing the gap between science and practice and specific practices such as Describing critical components of practices for which substantial evidence exists such as supported employment dual diagnosis services and assertive community treatment Developing an evidence base for particular populations such as children and adolescents and geriatric patients and for clinical subgroups such as patients with severe mental illness and posttraumatic stress disorder and implementing a range of practices for each population Debate in public forums is critical to explaining the benefits of evidence based care and allaying the fears of patients practitioners administrators policy makers and vested interest groups that evidence based care excludes them from the decision making process Patients need to know that their individual characteristics preferences and autonomy are highly valued and won't be discounted by rigid adherence to the particular treatments Practitioners need to know about the credibility of the evidence base and about new techniques and responsibilities and to understand that their favorite practices won't necessarily be excluded during initial attempts to implement evidence based practices Administrators and policy makers need to know about financing organizing implementing and sustaining new practices Finally vested interest groups need to know that the introduction of evidence based practices doesn't mean that what they do now is ineffective This unique and densely informative volume will be welcomed by mental health care professionals and by lawmakers planners administrators and others who are charged with the responsibility of providing effective care to vulnerable populations
