Learning Styles and Inclusion Gavin Reid, 2005-09-09 Gavin Reid provides some useful links to websites devoted to different approaches Some of the ideas relating to specific areas of the curriculum for example the suggested approaches to the teaching of modern languages are likely to be particularly valuable Reid also outlines strategies using learning styles for pupils with learning differences including attention disorders dyslexia developmental co ordination difficulties number difficulties and those on the autistic spectrum Times Educational Supplement Extra for Special Needs We have been lucky enough to hear Gavin speak twice in the last year and those of you who have also heard him will know that he is at the cutting edge of his field This book really encompasses those areas that are particularly topical and the buzz words on everyone s lips This book clearly sets out who is involved in inclusion and what is actually meant by learning styles Gavin not only offers practical strategies but also suggests how old hands could vary their teaching styles to appeal to all types of learners Therefore we feel this book is for the main stream teacher as well as the specialist and if this is a target area for your school this book might be a valuable addition to your bookshelf SATIPS In this book Gavin Reid has grasped the nettle of inclusion with both hands and provided a text that is full of common sense and practical suggestions as to how the mainstream teacher can draw upon recent psychological theory and research to enhance the learning of all children He jumps on no bandwagons but draws judiciously from a wide range of approaches to assessing learning styles and links what can be learned about groups and individuals from such techniques to helpful classroom practice Professor Bob Burden School of Education and Lifelong Learning University of Exeter Gavin Reid is that rare professional who not only explains how and why children learn best but also suggests a myriad of practical strategies to help them I highly recommend this book for everyone from undergraduates to old hands working toward successful inclusion Parents too will profit from Dr Reid s wise and comprehensive experience Jane M Healy Ph D Educational Psychologist and Author of Your Child s Growing Mind Brain Development and Learning from Birth to Adolescence 3rd Edition NY Broadway Books 2004 Drawing on his considerable experience as a teacher educational psychologist lecturer and author Gavin Reid illustrates how to assess pupils different learning styles and how to vary your teaching style to appeal to all types of learners including disaffected students and those with special educational needs This book provides an overview of the different stages in the learning cycle describes the differences between learners and emphasizes the role the classroom environment and different teaching styles play in children s ability to learn Readers will see how an understanding of learning styles can be used to encourage and promote good inclusive practice Ideas for assessment of learning styles and examples of different teaching styles will prove invaluable to class teachers trainee teachers SENCOs LEA advisers NQTs and NQT advisers and school management

Neuromimetic Semantics Harry Howard, 2010-08-10 This book attempts to marry truth conditional semantics with cognitive linguistics in the church of computational neuroscience To this end it examines the truth conditional meanings of coordinators quantifiers and collective predicates as neurophysiological phenomena that are amenable to a neurocomputational analysis Drawing inspiration from work on visual processing and especially the simple complex cell distinction in early vision V1 we claim that a similar two layer architecture is sufficient to learn the truth conditional meanings of the logical coordinators and logical quantifiers As a prerequisite much discussion is given over to what a neurologically plausible representation of the meanings of these items would look like We eventually settle on a representation in terms of correlation so that for instance the semantic input to the universal operators e g and all is represented as maximally correlated while the semantic input to the universal negative operators e g nor no is represented as maximally anticorrelated On the basis this representation the hypothesis can be offered that the function of the logical operators is to extract an invariant feature from natural situations that of degree of correlation between parts of the situation This result sets up an elegant formal analogy to recent models of visual processing which argue that the function of early vision is to reduce the redundancy inherent in natural images Computational simulations are designed in which the logical operators are learned by associating their phonological form with some degree of correlation in the inputs so that the overall function of the system is as a simple kind of pattern recognition Several learning rules are assayed especially those of the Hebbian sort which are the ones with the most neurological support Learning vector quantization LVQ is shown to be a perspicuous and efficient means of learning the patterns that are of interest We draw a formal parallelism between the initial competitive layer of LVQ and the simple cell layer in V1 and between the final linear layer of LVQ and the complex cell layer in V1 in that the initial layers are both selective while the final layers both generalize It is also shown how the representations argued for can be used to draw the traditionally recognized inferences arising from coordination and quantification and why the inference of subalternacy breaks down for collective predicates Finally the analogies between early vision and the logical operators allow us to advance the claim of cognitive linguistics that language is not processed by proprietary algorithms but rather by algorithms that are general to the entire brain Thus in the debate between objectivist and experiential metaphysics this book falls squarely into the camp of the latter Yet it does so by means of a rigorous formal mathematical and neurological exposition in contradiction of the experiential claim that formal analysis has no place in the understanding of cognition To make our own counter claim as explicit as possible we present a sketch of the LVQ structure in terms of mereotopology in which the initial layer of the network performs topological operations while the final layer performs mereological operations The book is meant to be self contained in the sense that it does not assume any prior knowledge of any of the many areas that are touched upon It therefore contains mini summaries of biological visual processing especially the retinocortical and ventral what parvocellular pathways computational models of neural signaling and in particular the reduction of the Hodgkin Huxley equations to the connectionist and integrate and fire neurons Hebbian learning rules and the elaboration of learning vector quantization the linguistic pathway in the left hemisphere memory and the hippocampus truth conditional vs image schematic semantics objectivist vs Effective Study Strategies Robin Roach Gilley, 2014-09-29 This text is a learner centered instructor guided integrated study skills primer that uses specific task chains to help students assess themselves identify their strengths and weaknesses and recognize the study skills they need to master Motivating Learners in the Classroom Gavin Reid, 2007-10-09 This is a rare find a book that manages to turn educational theory into accessible practice It will appeal to teachers managers support staff and anyone interested in how we learn This is a book relevant to everyone involved in education as it gets right to the heart of what makes us achieve motivation An empowering read don't miss it Support for Learning As the title suggests motivation is a key theme and this is explored with reference to theoretical perspectives on learning and how these can be translated into practice A real strength of the book lies in its emphasis on the importance of managing learning and developing effective whole school approaches to improving the motivation of pupils SENCO Update Help all your students become better learners This book tells you how to recognise and meet the individual needs of different kinds of learners and provides adaptable strategies for helping every learner develop their own successful approach to learning Packed full of advice the book contains o ideas for ways to motivate all pupils o a chapter on learning styles in the early years o advice on how to create the best learning environment possible o questionnaires memory games and organizational charts o key practice points o visual summaries at the end of each chapter The practical ideas offered in this book will be invaluable to all class teachers trainee teachers and SENCOs
